South-Western Cable TV, which has opened its office at 1918 Delmar Ave., will use the tower to receive signals from the company's main tower in Maryville. Clockwise from the left foreground are AT Dempster of Construction Drilling Co.,

Fuel leak concern on Nameoki Road

BULLETIN

Pumping operations were to begin today to remove gasoline under the ground at Nameoki and Johnson roads, using a wellpoint system. Although it has not been determined where the gasoline came from, owners of Nameoki Standard yesterday pumped all the fuel from their premium unleaded tank as a precaution, and said they will have the tank pressure tested.

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

"We have a potentially dangerous situation here," Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler summarized after city officials concluded that pools of gasoline exist several feet below the surface of the ground in the vicinity of Nameoki and Johnson roads.

Since February, businessmen in that vicinity have reported an odor of a gas, and the street department has taken several steps to attempt to resolve the problem, including venting the sanitary sewers of gasoline fumes which have leaked in.

Tuesday, the cause became clear as city officials lowered a glass jar into a hole dug by the street department and brought the jar out filled with what appeared to be gasoline.

At the curb near Nameoki Standard, workers dug a 15-foot hole and found the bottom 30 inches of the hole filled with gasoline.

The company is checking its records to see if it has experienced any loss of gasoline from its tanks, city officials were told.

On the north side of Jet Flight Flare, a jar was lowered 13½ feet into a boring and was brought up containing one-half inch of water in the bottom of the jar with six and one-half inches of gasoline on top of it.

School borrowing cut

By BILL WINTER
Editor

Aided by the closing of three schools a year ago, the Granite City School District has avoided instructional tax anticipation warrants until now in 1979-80; it authorized warrants not to exceed $650,000 Tuesday night.

Along with operating fewer schools and trimming the size of the staff, the district's effort to reduce borrowing also has been aided by the earlier receipt of taxes replacing the former corporate personal property tax.

Tully A. Heubner, director of business affairs, told the School Board that "with the prime interest rate decreasing, the cost of borrowing money has been decreasing proportionately."

"The board authorized issuance of tax warrants, if necessary, through the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank. I have discussed with them a new rate in lieu of the 10 percent quoted in March, and it was determined that necessary money can be borrowed through the issuance of warrants at an interest rate of seven percent.

"Due to the additional revenue received from the state as replacement revenue for the personal property tax, it has not been necessary to issue any warrants in the Education Fund. But it appears that between now and June 15 we will need up to $650,000."

A resolution authorizing such borrowing was approved.

The board on March 25 approved transfer of $230,349 from the Working Cash Fund to the Education Fund. Since then, the district has received the last distribution of taxes and the remaining $6,148 was ordered transferred Tuesday night.

Final approval was given by the Hope to expand low-interest home mortgage program in GC

A new program to provide additional low-interest mortgage loans to Granite Cityans will be initiated if Congressional action clears the way, City Council members were informed Tuesday night.

The program would be similar to that in which the city last year sold $10 million in revenue bonds to make loans for home purchases in Granite City. That program has been completed with all of the bond proceeds distributed in the form of home loans obtained through regular financing procedures conducted for the city by designated agencies.

The aldermen approved unanimously a resolution introduced by Ordinance Chairman Paul Schuler which authorizes Mayor Paul Schuler to proceed with arrangements to secure an underwriter, seek a bond buyer and take other actions preliminary to initiating the home mortgage program in the event Congress delays or rejects legislation restricting the tax-exempt status of revenue bonds.

Mayor Schuler told the aldermen that he has been informed that the U.S. Senate Finance Committee has voted 15 to 1 against approving any legislation that would restrict the sale of bonds, such as the Ahlman bill which proposed removal of tax exemption from bonds sold for financing home mortgage loans.

Mayor Schuler noted that it will be three or possibly four weeks before Congress completes its actions on any legislation that might have an effect upon future programs.

"We should be ready to act if the door is left open," the mayor said.

"Just to get on the record is the name

Officer returning

A current shortage of Madison police will be partly eased with the return soon of one of two ailing officers, Police Chief Donald Bridick said Wednesday.

Referring to an allegation made by a Madison police officer that over 200 arrest notifications for lack of city auto stickers had been written, but left out of the last report of arrests given to the Madison City Council, Chief Bridick replied: "The reason they were not in the report is because they (arrest notifications) were issued in May and the May report will be given to the council at a June meeting."

In discussing the shortage of commissioned police officers at this time, Bridick said, "We have two officers on sick leave and this is something you just cannot foresee or control. I am glad that on June 1, Lieutenant William Page will be returning to duty."

"This still leaves one sergeant in the hospital and we have not received a medical report on how long he will be off work," the chief said.

Bridick went on to explain, "The table of organization, as set forth by ordinance, calls for 12 commissioned officers. We have 11."

Memorial Day events

Schools, government offices and most businesses will close in the Quad-City area Monday, May 26, in observance of Memorial Day.

While a few firms and organizations will mark the holiday on May 30, the traditional date of Memorial Day, most persons in this area are accepting the Monday observance date which has been fixed by federal law designed to create additional three-day weekend holidays.

All schools in the Granite City, Madison and Venice School districts will be closed Monday, with regular classes scheduled to resume Tuesday morning. The administration offices of all three districts will be closed all day Monday to mark the holiday.

Banks and financial institutions will be closed Monday. Banks with drive-in facilities that customarily are open Saturday also will close those facilities Saturday for a three-day closing. All operations at banks and savings and loan firms will resume at regular hours on Tuesday.

There will be no mail delivery by the Granite City, Madison and Venice post offices. Lobbies will be open but there will be no window services. Regular postal operations will resume Tuesday.

State and federal offices will close for the holiday.

Memorial services sponsored by members of Quad-City area patriotic and service organizations will be held at 10:30 a.m. at the memorial plaque on

OUT ON A LIMB. Two workers for the L. E. Meyers Electrical Contractors, Lake St. Louis, Mo., dangle high above the southern tip of Gabaret Island below the lower crosspiece of one of three towers being erected for Union Electric Co. The helicopter above appears to rest on the higher crosspiece, but is actually hovering near the tower, towing a nylon rope being retrieved by the workers. Two high-voltage lines will span the Chain of Rocks Canal and Mississippi River when the project is completed. The lines, 345,000 and 138,000 volts each, originate at the Union Electric Venice plant and will feed a substation under construction on Hall Street in St. Louis. Art honors for Carolyn Smith

Carolyn S. Smith of Granite City won top honors in the 14th Annual Madison County Town and Country Art Show, sponsored by the Madison County Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana.

Dr. Joe Smith, head of the Art Department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, served as judge of the various art works displayed by 38 artists entered in this year's show. The event concluded this week at Four Flags Motors, Inc., Edwardsville.

Mrs. Smith won a first place blue ribbon and then achieved the gold ribbon, signifying "best of show," for her oil painting entitled "Winter Solitude." Additionally, the Granite City artist received the People's Choice award. This award was presented for the first time this year and was voted by the viewing public and guests attending the show.

Mrs. Smith and her husband, William R. Smith, assistant vice president of Illinois State Bank, reside at 2 Del Rio Ave.

She is employed by Attorney Phillip A. Theis as a legal secretary. The couple has a daughter, Cynthia, who is entering her senior year at SIUE.

ribbons were Eva M. Meadows of Granite City, who also captured an honorable mention ribbon for another entry; Vera J. Jagielski and Roseann H. Sullenger, both of Edwardsville; Margo M. Pencak, Caseyville; and Donna F. Tamburello, Collinsville.

The six blue ribbon winners in the county show will advance to the Regional VII Town and Country Art Show, scheduled June 6 through June 8, at St. Clair Mall, Fairview Heights.

Probation in burglary case

John D. Jackson, 18, of 2408 Kirkpatrick Homes, has been ordered by Associate Judge John W. Day to serve two years of probation and to make restitution of $10 after he pleaded guilty in Madison County Circuit Court to burglary.

Jackson was arrested in the parking lot of First Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Edison Avenue, Christmas Eve, 1979, after allegedly trying to remove an FM radio converter from the car of Robert Griffith, 2914 State St., in the church lot.

Douglas disputes air board action

Recent public criticism of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency by the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board came under fire at Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting.

Charles Douglas of the First Ward, but Douglas soon learned he was alone in disagreeing with the action. Paula Case, air pollution technician for the city's Air Pollution Control Department, recently made public statements in which she said the city's air board disagreed with the EPA seeking an injunction for Granite City Steel to close down its newly-rebuilt "A battery" coke ovens because no operating permit had been granted.

She contended the A battery is a much cleaner operation in regards to air pollution, than the older B and C batteries, which are due to be shut down in two weeks for rebuilding.

Speaking for the city's APCB, she said he felt the state was acting against clean air in attempting to have the A battery shut down for record-keeping reasons, since shutting down the A battery would require that the steel company keep the other two batteries operating, although they produce more air pollution than the A battery.

Douglas contended that people in Granite City feel that very little is being done by the city or the state to combat air pollution and the city should not criticize the EPA when something is being done.

Mrs. Case said at the council meeting that the EPA since has dropped its request for the injunction and is negotiating with the steel company on possible fines for operating the battery, without the proper permits. "We just felt there were more important considerations than bookkeeping," she stated.

Douglas replied, "I don't agree. It is certainly wrong when our own pollution control board is opposing something done by the state on pollution."

Senior Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward halted the discussion by saying, "I am glad they (the city's APCB) decided to oppose the state. If anyone is going to close down industry here, let it be the state. There is talk at the plant that the B and C ovens will be closed for good and more jobs will be lost."

"Right now, I am real proud of the stand that the Air Pollution Control Board took," Whitmer concluded.

Clergymen here back the ERA

Madison County clergy have united in a 19-member religious steering committee to underscore what they see as an urgent need for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment as a "covenant for human dignity."

"Passage of the ERA is crucial for our time," said the Rev. Dixon Beal, a United Church of Christ minister from Edwardsville. "It is abhorrent to all persons of conscience that inequality is supported by human law."

The committee spans all faiths and includes Protestants, Catholics and Jews. The members say they will visit legislators, talk to other clergy in the area and urge public action in the form of letters to lawmakers.

Rev. Beal was named chairman of the Interfaith ERA Committee for Madison County by John Mark Chappellet of Godfrey, liaison with the committee and the Alton ERA Center. "The ERA simply states that equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the U.S. or by any state on account of sex."

"The ERA will assure the legal rights of women. The committee will take this 94-word message of equality to area legislators and convince them that the ERA must be ratified by area legislators now," said Chappellet.

Other delegates to the committee are from Alton, Granite City, Edwardsville, Wood River, Collinsville, Godfrey, Venice, Roxana and Highland.

"Human progress is made by opposing those who deter human equality," said Rabbi Robert Jacobs of Temple Shalom in Godfrey. "The ERA is a step forward in the emancipation of man because it is a statement of equality for all people."

Among efforts by the group are tentative plans for an interfaith prayer service for the ERA. Chappellet said, "I believe that the basic value in ERA is that it will give women a legal basis for equality which will obtain the right that are rightfully theirs as human beings," said Sister Frances Schumacher, who is affiliated with the Catholic Children's Home in Alton. "The types of issues the opposition raises are happening now without the ERA."

Religious committee members are: Rev. Dixon Beal, United Church of Christ, Edwardsville; Rev. Dr. Robert Jacobs, Temple Shalom, Godfrey; Rev. Don Pierson, Namekiki United Presbyterian, Granite City; Sister Frances Schumacher, Sisters of the Adorers of the Blood of Christ, Alton; Rev. Sylvia Falconer, Unitarian Universalist, Alton.

Rev. John Henry Williams, Baptist, Venice; Rev. Charles E. Hill, United Methodist, Alton; Rev. Harris Schultz, Presbyterian, Roxana.

Rev. William Koehewa, United Church of Christ, Highland; Rev. Jeff Cheadle, Presbyterian, Granite City; Rev. Nancy Goff, United Church of Christ, Edwardsville.

Rev. Dr. Robert Smith, United Methodist Church, Wood River; Rev. Dr. William Lewis, United Methodist Church, Edwardsville; and Rev. Henry Allen, Baptist, Venice.

Topic—'80s environment

The impacts of environmental controls on St. Louis area business, consumers and local governments will be addressed during "Prospects for the '80s: An Environmental Conference" on Tuesday, May 27, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Stouffers Riverfront Towers in downtown St. Louis.

The one-day conference, sponsored by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and supported by 22 other cooperating agencies, will examine the background and effects of air and water pollution controls on diverse sectors in this metropolitan region.

Clarence W. Klassen, an environment consultant to businesses, government and the World Health Organization, will be the guest speaker. He will deliver a luncheon address, "The Third Environmental Era."

The conference will address the effects of controls through a series of four discussion panels, two in the morning and two in the afternoon.

The first panel will discuss "How Can Local Governments Cope in the '80s?" The panel will include St. Louis Mayor James F. Conway, East St. Louis Mayor Carl E. Officer, Franklin County Presiding Judge Hugh McCane and Charles Kaiser of the Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District.

The second session, "Expected Impacts on Citizens and Consumers," will explore the health effects of air pollution, costs of regulations to consumers, and citizens' responsibilities in improving the environment.

Representatives from the coal, steel and home building industries will discuss "The Costs of Doing Business in the '80s," the subject of the first afternoon panel discussion. The session will take an in-depth look at the way major businesses have complied with environmental regulations, and their expectations for the future.

In the final session, "Prospects for the '80s," two U.S. EPA administrators, Dr. Kay Camin and Valida V. Adamkus, will discuss federal environmental regulations and their impacts on the St. Louis area.

Fred Laffer, director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, will end the conference with a summary.

DeRuntz takes instruction on quartz watches

James DeRuntz, operator of Michel Jewelry and Gift Shop, 1442 State St., is now a certified Bulova quartz technician as a result of completing an intensive St. Louis County one-day seminar and examination on quartz-based timepieces, conducted by the Bulova Watch Co.

"Basically," DeRuntz said, "there are three types of quartz watches: the analog quartz watch with dial and hands; the analog-digital watch with dial, hands and a digital readout window only. All offer the consumer an in-use accuracy to within one minute a year. Fresh power cells of the correct type are essential to the efficient operation of all these watches."

"A tiny bar of quartz crystal keeps time by vibrating 32,768 times a second. Bulova offers more than 200 styles of quartz watches alone, for both men and women."

DeRuntz graduated from the Elgin Watchmakers' College in September 1949 and has been a watchmaker with Michel Jewelry since that time. He is a certified watchmaker with the American Watchmakers' Institute and a certified Accutron technician through the Bulova Watch Co.

Volcanic ash passes high over Quad-Cities

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Airborne volcanic ash from Sunday morning's eruption of Mt. St. Helens in Washington State arrived in the Quad-City area Tuesday, but did not cause any of the problems which were encountered Monday in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado.

The Granite City Air Pollution Control Department "dusted off" its procedure manuals in case the gray volcanic ash raised air pollution levels to the "emergency" state.

Paula Case, air pollution technician for the city's air control department, said emergency measures dictated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency when the pollution reaches certain specified levels could have demanded the closing of schools and the placing of restrictions on industries, air flights and transportation. Also, there could have been the issuance of a warning that all citizens remain indoors unless they wear respirators to keep the dust from getting into their lungs.

Fortunately, the level of the dust carried into this area from the volcano did not come close to the level to require such actions.

"Keep an eye on the sky," was the slogan for the air control department Tuesday as the dust moved into the Quad-City area, the first area in the state of Illinois it touched.

Immediate air monitoring commenced on a 24-hour-a-day basis at the high volume air sampler on top of the West Granite City Fire Station, Roosevelt Avenue and Rock Road.

At noon each day, the filter in the monitor was replaced and tests were conducted on the used filter to determine the amount of dust, particularly volcanic dust, that had removed from the air. The round-the-clock monitoring will continue through at least Saturday.

"Our special monitoring project for volcanic dust was one of only three or four in the state," Mrs. Case explained. "Although we did not see much dust here, this was an act of God and the potential for an emergency was there, so we were ready," she added.

Scientists estimate the "blanket" of dust could insulate the earth slightly from the rays of the sun, slightly reducing temperatures for two or three years.

However, the only obvious effect here from the dust, besides a tint of gray in the sky, was a more colorful sunset Tuesday evening.

"Moisture clings to the pollution particles and refraction from that moisture causes more color and brighter colors in the sunset," Mrs. Case explained.

Sunday morning's explosion in Washington killed at least eight persons. Nearly 100 persons have not been accounted for. Thousands were forced to leave their homes. A plume of steam and ash billowed an estimated 14,000 feet above the crater where it was picked up by upper air winds and carried over several states.

Much of Washington and Montana had businesses and schools closed by the heavy fallout and snow plows were required in parts of Washington to keep the roads passable. As much as seven inches of ash was reported on the ground in some areas.

"We were lucky," Mrs. Case said. "The heavier ash fell out of the cloud before it crossed the Colorado River and the lighter dust passed over us at about 31,000 to 41,000 feet. Gray skies were evident Tuesday and Wednesday, partially as a result of the ash.

"Our air samples appeared grayer than normal, but results of the tests are not yet available," she added yesterday.

State police Memorial weekend advice—slow down, drive safely

The Illinois State Police and the Missouri Highway Patrol will again participate in Operation CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) during the three summer holiday periods in 1980. The program, initiated in 1977 by Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, has been expanded to include all 48 contiguous states. Illinois State Police Superintendent R. J. Miller was elected national chairman of the 1980 CARE program. It involves cooperative effort by police agencies in traffic law enforcement. The goal is accident reduction during high traffic volume national holiday periods. Through the use of high visibility patrols on Interstate routes, the police will endeavor to encourage voluntary compliance with the 55 miles per hour speed limit—as well as adherence to other laws including improper lane usage, following too closely, and improper passing. Troopers will be especially alert for drivers who are under the influence of alcohol. The Illinois Department of Transportation's director of traffic safety, Karsten Vieg, said, "To help promote Operation CARE, the IDOT is sponsoring a 'courtesy coffee break' program at eight interstate rest-stop locations in Illinois during the Memorial Day holiday period." Other agencies participating in this program are the St. Louis Police Department and the St. Louis Safety Council. Super Miller said, "The bottom line in this operation is to maintain efficient movement of traffic while reducing accidents." "We want to reverse the trend of escalating traffic fatalities. Operation CARE gives us a chance to show the public we care about their safety." "We hope motorists care enough to slow down and drive safely."

'Witch hunt' against schools

Prevailing criticism of public education "smacks strongly of the days of Salem witch hunts," said Illinois Senate President Philip J. Rock in the latest issue of the Illinois School Board Journal. It is published every other month by the Illinois Association of School Boards for more than 10,000 board members, administrators and other subscribers. "Legislative success for education in Illinois is tempered by the problems people feel education faces," writes Rock in his article titled "Let people know what schools are doing, or pay into the General Assembly." "The public is running out of patience and the government is running out of resources." Yet, says Rock, "I maintain educators have not failed to provide meaningful education. Indeed, we are reaching outstretched hands that were never before touched."

Educators need to evaluate their schools' goals and operations, and let the public know what they are achieving and what it costs, Rock advises. His article is one of several examining the issue of retaining community control of schools through political action and citizen involvement. In another, "A parent looks at the battle for local schools," Marye C. Feldman, a writer and editor at the college and head of the legislative committee of her local Parent-Teacher Association, urges school boards to:

"Give the public a voice in collective bargaining to help halt the bargaining away of school board prerogatives; get the public behind you in the legislature. Demands that are not satisfied at the bargaining table are pursued in the legislature with disarming success."

On another subject, ISBJ editors warn Illinois school boards that the recent financial crisis in the Chicago school system "should serve as a lesson to other school boards around the state."

"The first lesson from Chicago is that going broke does not close schools or generate state or federal financial help. It simply forces the school board to cut expenditures to the level of revenues."

The editorial advises boards on how to avoid a Chicago-type collapse, warning the boards that choose to operate a deficit to "know what you're doing and why" and to "consider sharing what you know with your community."

Super-size parade, new circus awaited

This will be the 13th year for Aina Temple to sponsor a circus in this area, and it is the one time each year when the 8,000 nobles raise funds from the public to help finance their hospital program.

Aina sent more than 311 children to the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children in 1979 from this region, and the number will be bigger in 1980, Potentate Raymond L. Tibbs said.

"With a $2.50 charge for adult admission and $1.25 for children, Aina Temple's Shrine Circus is still the finest and cheapest entertainment to be found anywhere," according to Chairman Donald G. Adams, Aina's chief rabban.

"This price has prevailed for many years, and yet the caliber of the fine acts has grown to the point where the Shrine has the finest show money can buy."

Belleville will be the scene of a huge parade at 8 p.m. on June 6 and two shows at the Belle-Claire Fairgrounds on Saturday, June 7, three on June 8 and one on June 9. Granite City will have an unusually large circus parade on June 10, including St. Louis Moolah Shrine units.

Circus performances are set for 7:30 p.m. on June 11, 12 and 13 at the Tri-City Speedway on Route 203. "The George Hubler Circus is providing all new acts and new ways to thrill viewers," Adams said. "The 2½ hour program will be something to talk about for many days to come. Everyone loves a circus, and this is a good one."

Woman Presbyterian here Sunday

Miss Evelyn Fulton, executive of the United Presbyterian Church of the United States in America, will be guest speaker Sunday at the Men's Breakfast event at Nameoki Presbyterian Church.

Fred Fossick, Fred Barr and Al Babi will prepare and serve the meal at 7:30 a.m. The Rev. Don F. Pierson, pastor, invited all men interested in attending the breakfast to call 877-4740.

The only woman to head a major Presbyterian in the United Presbyterian Church, the guest speaker came to the St. Louis area with a wide background of mission and administrative experience on both regional and national levels, Rev. Pierson said.

The breakfast theme will be "Issues Facing the 1980 General Assembly."

The General Assembly, the highest judicatory of the United Presbyterian Church, will convene Tuesday, May 27, in Detroit, Mich.

Such matters as the control and ownership of local church properties, merger with the (Southern) Presbyterian Church, U.S., and the establishment of a Peace Institute will be among significant issues to be before the assembly, Rev. Pierson said.

Holiday closing plans at SIUE

Most buildings on the SIUE campus will be closed in observance of Memorial Day, May 26. Others will be operating on a limited basis. Lovejoy Library will be open from 2 until 9 p.m. Monday for the convenience of students who wish to study or do research work. The Science and Technology Building will be open all day to accommodate scheduled activities, and the Communications Building will be open for rehearsals from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday. All other core buildings will remain closed.

The University Center will close earlier than usual Friday, May 23. However, the recreation area will remain open until 10 p.m. (by the south entrance only). The center will remain closed through Memorial Day. Normal operations and regular hours in all university buildings will resume Tuesday, May 27, at 7:30 a.m.

Gasoline leak

Bud Levin, vice-president of Midwest Petroleum Co., agreed that the substance appeared to be gasoline, but he opened the inventory books for the station to indicate that all of the gasoline delivered to the station since January is accounted for.

"Through a series of tests, we have proved to our satisfaction that we are not missing any product," Levin said. Mel Abrams, territory manager for Midwest Petroleum, agreed, saying a combination of checks—both on the amount of gasoline the pumps say were sold and on the amount measured nightly by lowering measuring sticks into the station's gasoline tanks—indicate none is missing.

Mayor Paul Schuler, City Engineer Monroe Brewer, Fire Chief Don Parente, Street Superintendent Lionel Portell and others were present at the stations Tuesday and yesterday as attempts were made to pinpoint the source of the underground gasoline.

Another test boring on the north side of the Fina station, near Johnson Road, showed less than one inch of gasoline under the ground. Another boring near the underground tanks of the Pep Car Wash, north of Jet Flight, showed a smaller amount.

Amoco officials stressed yesterday that they do not know if the gasoline has been coming from their tanks, but did send a specialist out to pump gas from several of the holes street department workers drilled yesterday.

The problem was detailed to the city council at Tuesday night's regular meeting and the council agreed to hire Ryckman's Emergency Service to conduct a preliminary investigation into the source of the underground gasoline. The firm is to receive an amount based upon hourly work, not to exceed a total of $2,500.

However, Mayor Schuler warned, "This is only for a preliminary survey. They have indicated that the actual survey could cost from $15,000 to $200,000 to find the source and solve the problem."

Schuler said efforts could be made by the city to recover the cost of the study, if the source of the underground gasoline is identified, but he said he felt the work should be done "because we have a serious problem."

Officials of American Heritage Bank have expressed concern since February about the strong odor, fearing an explosion.

Last week, residents of the 2900 block of Grand Avenue had gasoline fumes back up in the sanitary sewers and enter the basements of their homes, the mayor said.

"If gasoline fumes enter a house near a hot water heater or flame, we have a potentially dangerous hazard. We have appraised Victor Koenig (Civil Defense director for the city) of the situation and he is making calls to determine what state or federal help may be available," the mayor added.

State and federal air pollution and state water officials also have indicated an interest in the situation and may be joining the city in the search for the source of the underground gasoline, the council was told.

Portell said that all of the underground gasoline tanks in that area underwent pressure tests in February. All were found to be tight, except one fuel oil tank at Jet Flight, which was leaking about one gallon each hour.

That tank was pumped dry, cleaned and filled with sand, he said. Since it contained fuel oil and not gasoline, it is not believed to have been the cause of the gasoline found in the ground nearby, he indicated.

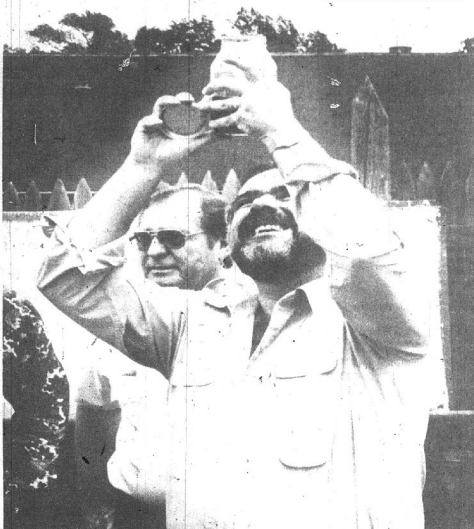

Work by the Ryckman firm is expected to get underway immediately to aid the city in coping with the problem and with diminishing any dangers from the underground gasoline.

Schuler told officials working with the problem that he wants to be kept fully informed on all developments and discoveries.

UNDERGROUND TESTS are made at Nameeki and Johnson roads Tuesday as city officials try to identify the source of a large amount of gasoline which has pooled several feet below the surface and has leaked into the city's sanitary sewers. Service station operators cooperated fully with the city in their tests and in comparing the amount of gasoline put into each station's underground tanks compared to the amount pumped out. But the source still has not been positively identified, officials said.

IT'S GASOLINE, Bud Levin, vice-president of Midwest Petroleum Co., agrees as he examines a jar of liquid pulled up from a test boring at Nameeki and Johnson roads Tuesday. Pinpointing the source of an underground gasoline pool has occupied the time of many city workers this week, and a specialist has been hired to help solve the mystery. Levin showed records indicating that the gasoline did not come from the Fina station at that intersection.

Films, classes at the Mounds Historic Site

Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site is introducing two new summer programs this year. The first of these is a film series which will begin on June 7 and run through Aug. 31. All films are free and will be shown on weekends only (Saturday and Sunday) at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Films will deal with such topics as early Indian cultures in North America, American Indian music, archaeology, flint working, and the situation of American Indians today.

Two workshops will also be offered this summer.

In June, Edmund "Eppie" Gerlach Jr. of the Cahokia Mounds Indian Dancers will lead Indian dancing. The class will focus on American Plains war dancing and will be held on Saturday mornings from 10 to noon. Tuition is $15 and advance registration is required.

A second workshop, Introductory Flint Working, will be taught in August by Cahokia Mounds Interpreter David Klotzmeier. Students will use authentic flint tools to chip flint tools and weapons. The flint class will meet on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. Tuition is $20 and enrollment will be limited. Advance registration is required.

To register for either workshop or for more information concerning the film series, Quad-Cityans may call or write the Cahokia Mounds Museum, 7850 Collinsville Road, E. St. Louis 62201 (314-4268).

Memorial Day mass

Members of all parishes in the Quad-City area are invited to participate in a memorial mass to be offered at 10 a.m. Monday, May 26, at Calvary Cemetery in Edwardsville Township.

Priests from local parishes will lead the concelebrated service.

Father Victor of St. Joseph

Catholic Church, who is in charge of arrangements, said today if rain should cause a postponement of Monday's service, the mass will be rescheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 31.

Additional information may be obtained by calling local rectories, Father Victor advised.

Probation, fine in robbery

Billy Mathis Hutchinson II, 18, of 2731 Warren Ave., has been released on four years of probation and ordered to pay a $200 fine after pleading guilty to robbery.

Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence.

He was originally charged with an armed robbery at Lehne's Confectionery in Granite City Sept. 25, 1979, in which about $200 cash was taken. The robber had a towel wrapped around his hand, as though he may have had a gun, police were told. Judge Day allowed him to plead guilty to the lesser charge of robbery and ordered the probation and fine.

Sues after fall

Larry Hooker, a former construction ironworker, has filed a $100,000 lawsuit in Madison County Circuit Court against the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp., Andco Inc., Raymond Isom and Clark Painting Co.

Hooker alleges that on Feb. 23 he was employed at the construction job near the blast furnaces and was carrying a heavy chain lifting mechanism down a stairway when he slipped on wet paint, dripping from above. He alleges he was injured as he slipped and fell.

The suit seeks $25,000 each from the steel firm; Andco, a subcontractor; Isom, construction supervisor on the project, and the painting firm.

PICKUP HITS BIKE

Carol Bowman, 22, of 1215 Edwardsville Road, was injured when the bicycle she was riding was struck from behind by a white Ford pickup truck which then drove from the scene. The accident occurred in the northbound lanes of Benton Avenue where the cyclist stopped to cross 20th Street. She described the driver of the truck as having long dark hair and a beard. A blond woman was a passenger. The victim suffered abrasions to her shoulder and knee, but did not seek immediate hospital treatment.

The menu will include chicken dinners, barbecue pork steaks, and hamburgers. Serving will begin at 3 p.m. Carryout orders will be available.

Music for dancing will be provided by Greg Novak's "Remede" Polka Band beginning at 6:30 p.m. The Checkerboard Squares will entertain at 5 p.m. and the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Polish Cultures Troupe with Mark Sarich in charge, will perform during band intermissions.

Connie E. Farley, 22, of 646 Margaret Ave., Mitchell, was arrested at 4:05 p.m. yesterday by a Granite City police detective and was charged with Friday night's shooting of two men outside of Victor's Tavern, West 20th Street and Illinois Ave.

FINE IS ASSESSED

Steven D. Watkins, 28, of 2444 Terminal Ave., has been fined $500 and ordered to spend one year on probation after pleading guilty to obstructing a peace officer during a Dec. 7, 1979, disturbance. Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence and dismissed charges of obstructing justice and attempting to obstruct justice from the same incident.

documents issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office. The charges are two counts of aggravated battery and two counts of armed violence.

Police allege she and a man were in a northbound white auto which passed the tavern when numerous shots were fired at Jeffrey L. Clifford, 22, of the 2100 block of Illinois Ave., and Tommy Sloan, 26, of the 2800 block of Denver Street. Both men were shot in the back and are recuperating from their wounds.

Investigators said the shooting apparently stemmed from an earlier fight in the tavern in which Charles Tilson, 49, of the 1700 block of Olive Street suffered cuts to his face. He was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and is not a suspect in the shooting incident, police said.

After the fight, one of the men involved allegedly left to get a gun. Mrs. Farley is believed to have accompanied him. Then, police alleged, the two drove past the tavern and numerous shots were fired from the car at the men on the sidewalk. Clifford was shot twice in the back and Sloan had three bullet wounds to his back. Another bullet struck an outside wall of the tavern, according to official reports.

REPRESENTATIVES of the business community listen to an explanation of steps to be initiated by the Granite City Police Department should a situation develop in which hostages are taken by an armed robber or under other circumstances. At the head of the table is GC Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer. The instructors were Detective Sergeant Tony Eck and Patrolman Steve Willard, both of whom have completed hostage negotiation courses.

Cable TV office is opened in GC

Southwestern Cable TV, Inc., opened its Granite City business office Tuesday at 1918 Delmar Ave., and expects to begin solicitation of subscribers for pay television within the next week.

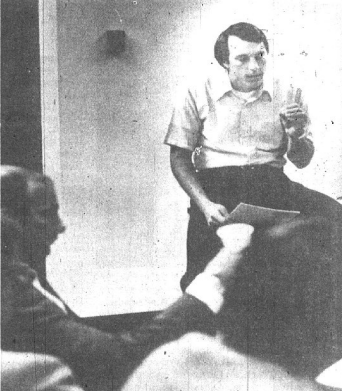

Construction work also was under way this week on the cable TV tower in the parking lot of Vaughn's Pharmacy, 1836 Delmar Ave. The concrete base was poured early in the week. Work on the tower erection will proceed as soon as the concrete is dry.

The tower is expected to be completed by the latter part of next week, officials said, permitting the connection of cables and introduction of cable TV programming into the Quad-City area within the next month.

The basic rate for cable TV service will be $7 per month. Home box office movies may be added for another $9 per month and Tape Two service (featuring only G and PG rated movies) may be added for $5, making a $21 per month total package cost.

Senior citizens may obtain basic service for $4 a month, HBO for $5 a month and Tape Two for $2 per month, a total of $12 per month.

IMPORTANT details in gaining the release of hostages through negotiation are recounted by Patrolman Steve Willard, who stressed "Human life is the most important thing." Other options are open to local law enforcement officers should talk fail.

Those to receive diplomas are Michele Morris, Jeff Frost, Bob Stevens and Kenneth Mikuliza.

Venice school year ends May 30; board adopts new calendar

Students in the Venice School District will be dismissed from classes Friday, May 30, it was decided by the board of education at its meeting Monday night.

In other action, the board also adopted a school calendar for the 1980-81 school year.

Supt. of Schools Robert N. Vickers said the calendar for the current year originally called for the dismissal of pupils June 6.

Five days, however, which are included in the present attendance schedule for emergency closings, usually classified as "snow days," can be legally deducted as they were not utilized, the administrator said.

Venice students will return to school Tuesday, Aug. 26, with faculty members reporting for the previous day, Aug. 25.

In the 1980-81 calendar, next year's school activities will end June 5 and also includes five emergency closing days.

Supt. Vickers reported that a total of 183 teaching days will be recorded next year and three teacher institute days, including 90 teaching days and one institute day in the first semester and 93 teaching days and two institute days in the second semester.

After classes resume Tuesday, Aug. 26, Venice pupils will be dismissed for Labor Day on Sept. 1, Columbus Day, Oct. 13, Veterans Day, Nov. 11, and Thanksgiving, Nov. 27 and 28.

School will be dismissed for Christmas vacation Dec. 23, with students returning to classes on Jan. 5.

On Jan. 15, no school will be held in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King's Birthday and the first semester of school will conclude Jan. 16.

Students will be dismissed from classes on Feb. 12, Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 27, District Institute Day, March 27, County Institute Day, April 16 to 20, spring vacation (Easter holidays) and May 25, Memorial Day.

Supt. Vickers reported

Police explain policy in hostage situation

By VALERIE EVENDEN of the Press-Record

Although the word hostage nowadays immediately evokes thoughts of the tragic situation in Iran, where 53 Americans are being held prisoner, law enforcement departments in the United States must view the word in a more local sense.

Law officers have been faced with many hostage situations since 1973 and these conditions seem to be on the increase.

Today, more than ever, police are responding to armed robberies in progress in a fraction of the time it required a few years ago.

This increased skill in incident response unfortunately promotes a perpetrator's need to take hostages, according to Thomas Strentz of the FBI Academy at Quantico, Va., an authority on the psychological reactions of individuals who are taken hostage.

In the past, the armed robber was frequently gone before the employees felt safe enough to sound the alarm, but today silent alarms are triggered automatically.

Other instances involving hostages also appear to be mounting, with ransomware efforts being attempted in many circumstances.

The Granite City Police Department is taking steps to deal with a possible hostage situation, it has been learned.

Last week, the department invited top representatives from banks in the Quad-Cities to attend a seminar to explain various predetermined tactics which would be followed in the event such a situation existed within their jurisdiction.

Conducting the session were Detective Sergeant Tony Eck and Patrolman Steve Willard.

Sgt. Eck has successfully concluded 54 hours of anti-terrorism and hostage negotiation training—40 hours at the Illinois State Police Academy in Springfield and a 14-hour course sponsored by the Illinois State Police Enforcement Commission.

Willard also concluded the 14-hour course. Lt. Col. George Teller, head of the GCPD Operations Bureau, likewise completed the Illinois State Police Academy training.

GC Chief of Police Ronald

J. Veizer, upon whom the ultimate decision rests in relation, to the final disposition of a hostage situation in the local community, received similar training in a seminar presented through the Illinois Chiefs of Police Association.

The bank officers were told that the vast majority of hostage incidents are accidental.

In cases such as these, it is likely the robber did not plan to take hostages. However, the police arrive sooner than anticipated and as a new form of flight—a method of escape—the now trapped armed robber takes a hostage so he can bargain his way out, bank personnel were advised.

According to Strentz, in his desperation the armed robber compounds his dilemma by adding kidnapping and assault charges.

These considerations are initially minimal to him. His emotions are running high; he wants to buy time and in this he succeeds.

The trapped subject is outgunned and outnumbered and with each fleeting moment his situation becomes less tenable.

At this point, the need for an experienced negotiator is critical. Human life is the most important thing and this is the primary consideration to remember throughout such an operation, Det. Sgt. Eck stated.

What to expect under such circumstances was described by the officer to those attending the session. To gain information and establish communication with the hostage taker are the first obligation of a negotiator, he stressed.

The first 30 minutes in a hostage situation are vital and, depending how these minutes are handled, will determine whether the outcome of the entire mission is successful.

For the negotiator, it is important to reduce the anxiety of a hostage taker, have him talk about the situation and ventilate his problems, Sgt. Eck said.

Build a body of knowledge, with each question designed to learn more, allowing the police negotiator to interpret, predict and influence behavior.

Chief Veizer said the selection of a negotiator with specific basic characteristics is essential.

He or she must be calm, stable, not easily distracted, experienced, mature, a good listener and have the ability to be "a fisherman" able to explore through questioning.

Should all negotiations fail, there comes a time when a decision must be made to take other steps.

This decision will be made by the police chief.

Three methods of relieving a hostage situation are considered irreversible once started, but may have to be used, the officers noted.

An assault on the area where the hostages are being held, the use of sniper fire or employing chemical agents are the traditional types of approaches.

It was noted the Granite City Police Department has expert riflemen who form a sniper squad. They are equipped with 300 caliber weapons with sniper scopes.

In a hostage situation, the stranger—the victim—the law abiding citizen—is forced into this life and death situation and is unprepared for the turn of events, the bank representatives were told.

Therefore, in hostage negotiations, primary concern is to relieve the situation from violence and get hostages released as soon as possible.

At all times we must remember that human life is the most important thing, the detective sergeant stated.

Port development financing offered

Clarence C. Barksdale said yesterday that First National Bank in St. Louis will use its full resources — people and financial — to back a development program he outlined to port users and operators.

Chairman of the board and chief executive officer, he said the bank will finance a program to spur development of the Port of Metropolitan St. Louis, which includes the Tri-City Regional Port.

Addressing more than 250 area businessmen at an economic development seminar, Barksdale said, "We have commissioned Sverdrup Corp. to begin the identification of five prime river sites which have immediate development possibilities for at least five prime candidate companies. These sites and the corresponding candidate companies will be selected within the next three-month period as a result of research of today's industrial market demands."

He said, "It is time that the St. Louis area become aware of the enormous economic potential inherent in development of the port."

"The Port has received little or no mention in recent years in spite of the fact that it is a tremendous economic asset to the region, and has been studied at length."

Barksdale's remarks were directed to an audience consisting of port users and operators gathered for a half-day seminar to discuss port development.

Also addressing the group were Lawrence K. Roos, president of the Federal Reserve Bank, St. Louis; Charles G. Houghton, executive director, Bi-State Development Agency; James M. O'Flynn, president, Regional Commerce and Growth Association; Carl A. Kuntz, general manager, Tri-City Regional Port District; Robert C. West, chairman of the board and president, Sverdrup Corp.; and Luther Hodges, deputy secretary of Commerce.

In his introductory remarks, Barksdale said there will be a series of economic development forums to focus public attention on particular economic problems or opportunities of priority to the metropolitan area, and to provide a meeting ground for businessmen and elected officials.

He said, "Many of us recognize that in today's environment in St. Louis, those projects which are developed through the cooperative efforts of the public and private sectors are those which are most likely and most often to succeed."

"We chose port development as the first topic because it is time to wake up the community of St. Louis, East St. Louis and those residents up and down the 70-mile stretch of the Mississippi River that is called the Port of Metropolitan St. Louis."

The port includes all or portions of St. Louis, St. Louis County, St. Charles County, Jefferson County and Franklin County in Missouri, and portions of all of Madison County, St. Clair County, Monroe County and Randolph County in Illinois.

The program initiated yesterday to expedite port development will not be restricted to the immediate St. Louis area but will examine tracts of land within the whole port.

Only sites with immediate industrial development potential are to be selected.

Flees from pharmacies

Dennis J. Deekard, 33, St. Louis, was charged with possession of marijuana and two state counts of disorderly conduct after he allegedly attempted to pick up illegal prescriptions at two local pharmacies Wednesday morning.

A pharmacist at Reese Drugs in Belleme Village Shopping Center told police a man called, saying he was a doctor and ordered a prescription of Darvon for a woman. He allegedly gave officers a false doctor's authorization number and said a man would pick up the prescription.

When a man asked for the woman's prescription, he was asked to show his identification and he allegedly ran out the door.

A pharmacist at Walgreen's in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center said the same method was used to make a prescription order in a man's name at that pharmacy and when the man picking up the prescription was asked to show his identification, he fled out the door.

A description of the auto was radioed to area officers and a Madison County

Mrs. Williams said she received a tetanus shot, but that she may have to undergo the series of rabies shot if the animal is not found to learn whether or not it may have rabies.

Anyone with information about the cat's location or ownership has been asked to call the animal shelter at 452-6233.

CRASH VICTIM, Lawson Mason, 55, of 113 Slough Road, Venice, lies on the pavement near his auto on Route 203 at Harrison Road south of Madison Tuesday morning after his car collided with a southbound car driven by Tammy Lynn, 1914 Edwardsville Road, at 7:45. Mason was attempting to make a left turn from Harrison onto Route 203 when his car was struck on the driver's side by the Lynn car. Mason was transported to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated for burns to his back, shoulders and face, and was admitted. He had been thrown from his auto and pinned under the front of the Lynn car. Passing motorists stopped and used a small hydraulic jack to raise the vehicle off Mason. Tammy Lynn later went to the medical center with pains of the head and neck; she was treated and released. Madison police aided in traffic control during the morning rush hour. The other picture provides a view of the crash looking north toward the McCambridge Avenue viaduct.

GC licenses 'head shops'

An ordinance regulating "head shops" in Granite City was adopted by the Granite City Council Tuesday night. The ordinance requires any business selling items designed or marketed for use with illegal drugs or marijuana, such as bongs, pipes, roach clips or other paraphernalia to buy a $150 city license and then to record the names and addresses of persons making purchases of such items.

Before a city license is granted, according to the ordinance, the owner of the business and each employee shall submit affidavits that none of them have been convicted of any drug-related offenses.

Sales of items designed for use with illegal drugs or marijuana to anyone under 18 years of age also is prohibited by the ordinance.

Anyone purchasing any item covered by the ordinance will have to have his name, address, items purchased, date of the sale and his signature recorded in the store. The store owner then will be required to keep the record for two years and have it available to police to inspect at any time during the business day.

Fines for violation of the ordinance range from $10 to $500 per offense and each day a violation continues shall be a separate offense, the document specifies.

Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward objected to the ordinance, stating it is "nothing but harassment," and stating, "I think it is unconstitutional."

Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward said that if Douglas feels the keeping of records of sales is unconstitutional, then the state's gun control laws, which require similar records, would be unconstitutional. "At least guns are being used for sport. This paraphernalia is being used only for drug use," Fisk said.

Alderman Paul Ray Bowler of the Seventh Ward said he is concerned there may be confusion over what items are covered by the ordinance and what items are not. Water pipes, for example, are used by some people to smoke tobacco, he said.

Chief of Police Ronald J. Velzer said he introduced the ordinance to the city attorney after the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled it constitutional elsewhere in the state and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal.

He noted the ordinance does not prohibit the sale of the items, which would be unconstitutional, but regulates the sales.

"These items are sold at a couple of shops in Granite City and any kid who walks in and has a buck can buy these things. Police chiefs across the country are submitting this ordinance to their councils."

"All it says is that he (the shop owner) has to keep a record. This is a copy of the ordinance which has been ruled constitutional."

Douglas relented, "If the court says it is constitutional, I will support it, but I still think there is the possibility of harassment of buyers."

Douglas also used the ordinance to repeat one of his long standing disagreements with council procedure. He said the ordinance had not been taken before the ordinance committee and the first-time most of the aldermen heard it was on the council floor Tuesday night, when it was given final approval.

He also objected to the chief of police introducing an ordinance to the city without the sponsorship of any alderman.

Velzer said that when he received the copy of the ordinance, he talked to the chairman of the police and ordinance committees and sent copies of the ordinance to several aldermen, as well as to the city attorney.

Fisk, chairman of the ordinance committee, contended that the committee met to study proposed ordinances, but Douglas was not present.

Douglas disagreed, saying that the committee's "meeting" was only idle chatter moments before the council meeting.

Mayor Paul Schuler interrupted the disagreement to say, "The chief is asking for our help in controlling a very serious problem and I don't see how anyone could vote against it."

With only Douglas voting "no," the council voted to suspend the rules so the ordinance could be passed the same night, rather than put on first reading and finalized at the next meeting.

Alderman Lloyd Bailey of the Fifth Ward voted to put the ordinance on final passage, but warned, "I agree with Mr. Douglas. We should have time to study these ordinances before voting on them in the future."

Alderman Roy Poulos of the Third Ward said he did not see why Douglas and Bailey were worried about passing ordinances without seeing them first. "I have served on the ordinance committee for many years, including back with (the late) Walter Nomm. Most ordinances are routine and we didn't see most of these."

"We didn't raise a big fuss about ordinances. It's not such a big deal," Poulos said.

When the vote on the final passage of the head shop ordinance was taken, it passed unanimously.

Venice police ask $300 raise

Venice Police Unit 38, Police Benevolent and Protective Association, has asked the Venice City Council to consider a $300 per-month pay raise for everyone in the department. The request was made by Henry Fisher, a representative for Hardisty & Hanover, of New York, a consulting engineering firm.

Fisher reported to the council that engineers have been in town for the past two days for the annual inspection of the bridge and have found nothing seriously wrong with the span.

Fisher said, "We really don't expect to find anything real serious. There was a lot of money spent last year become involved in the bargaining of Unit 38."

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols said, "I want the record to show that, as requested by the police, the letter was read in an open meeting of the council and made public."

"The requests will be taken under advisement," Echols concluded.

The McKinley bridge was reported to be in reasonably good condition, according to Henry Fisher, a representative for Hardisty & Hanover, of New York, a consulting engineering firm.

Fisher reported to the council that engineers have been in town for the past two days for the annual inspection of the bridge and have found nothing seriously wrong with the span.

Fisher said, "We really don't expect to find anything real serious. There was a lot of money spent last year making repairs." Bridge Manager Thomas Fields reported that $138,000 was spent on major repairs last year.

Representatives from the New York based firm will be in Venice until Friday inspecting all areas of the bridge.

With the council concurring, former Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold was reappointed by Mayor Echols to the Tri-City Regional Port District Board.

At the suggestion of Mayor Echols the council approved a plaque honoring Mrs. Anna McKinley Spencer who is retiring from the Venice School District.

Mrs. Spencer has served 31 years in the district as a teacher and administrator. A letter from the manager of Conaco reported that all waste material is being stored in accordance with all governmental safety requirements. Part of the waste is termed as "slightly radioactive" and not dangerous to anyone. It is stored in a special location and is regularly checked for safety, the council was informed.

Pleads guilty

Sharon F. Mueggengberg, 20, Troy, a former employee of the office of Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell, has pleaded guilty in Madison County Circuit Court to a felony count of theft of county funds and has been ordered to serve one year of probation and to repay $1,125 she allegedly stole. A second felony count of theft has been dismissed.

It was alleged that money was taken from the clerk's office Nov. 27, 1979, and Jan. 21, 1980.

Workshops on joint elections

Evelyn M. Bowles, Madison County clerk, in cooperation with the Illinois State Board of Elections, will be conducting three election consultation workshops for local election officials (municipal and township clerks, school board secretaries, etc.).

One workshop will be held on Tuesday, May 27, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the County Board Room, County Courthouse, Edwardsville.

Two workshops will be held on the following day, Wednesday, May 28, from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the same location.

The purpose of the workshops, Miss Bowles explained, is to familiarize local election officials with their duties and responsibilities under election consolidation, which will become law on Dec. 1 of this year.

Six teenagers followed the man and returned them to the store, where they were held until Madison County sheriff's deputies arrived.

Edwards Mobile Home Park, where a Riverview Gardens woman waited in a car.

Future—like the old gray mare—ain't what she used to be, group concludes

The future — "endlessly fascinating, full of promise and peril, always imaginable but always tantalizingly out of reach" — will be explained in a one-hour public television program "Cover Story: Your Future Isn't What It Used to Be" on Monday, May 26, at 9 p.m. on KETC Channel 9.

"Your Future" is the first in the new Cover Story series which brings to public television the resources and the editorial and broadcast talent of Newsweek. WQED, Pittsburgh is producing the series in association with Newsweek.

This is the first time a major news organization and a public television production center have collaborated on a series of specials for national telecast on PBS.

Newsweek byliners appearing in "Your Future" include deputy foreign editor Tom Mathews, sports columnist Pete Axthelm, economic columnist Jane Bryant Quinn and political analyst George F. Will.

Also featured in the show are actor Art Carney, historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and futurist Dr. Herman Kahn, director of the Hudson Institute, and Stewart Brand, creator of the "Whole Earth Catalogue and Truck Store."

"Your Future" will devote two segments to issues which ask: "Is the atomic age over?" and "Does the moon belong to everyone?" The segments will seek to thoughtfully pose these questions, but the answers remain elusive.

Puzzling as the future must ever be, man has often tried to predict it. In a very segment, Axthelm recalls the prognostications of the 18th century astrologer Nostradamus and writers Jules Verne and H. G. Wells. Providing the viewpoints of some of the modern thinkers, George Will pins his hopes for the future on science.

Schlesinger, with the historian's awareness of the errors of the past, says that no scenario can allow for historical accident — and contingency. On the lighter side, there is a cartoon by George Griffin based on actual predictions by scientific centers.

DR. KING NAMED 'GREAT TEACHER'
Alumni of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have voted Dr. Donald T. King, professor of counselor education, this year's "Great Teacher."

Inaugurated 11 years ago, the Great Teacher Award is given to the instructor whom SIUE graduates believe had the most influence on them while they were at the campus.

The award includes a $1,000 gift, financed by contributions from alumni, and an inscribed plaque. The award recognizes excellence in classroom teaching, not research, administrative accomplishments or personality. It will be presented at commencement exercises June 6.

TRAILRIDERS PLAN RUMMAGE, BAKE SALE
The Trailriders Saddle Club will sponsor a rummage and bake sale, starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, at Faith Baptist Church, Nameoki Road and Faith Avenue.

Club officers are arranging the event and are inviting the public to attend. A riding show, scheduled for the past Sunday, May 18, was cancelled due to muddy conditions at the club arena, located on Chouteau Slough Road and Rock Road, near the Chain of Rocks Canal levee, an officer reported. The club's next competitive show is set for 6:30 p.m. Saturday, May 31.

PEDESTRIAN SUES
Mercede Mendoza has filed suit in Madison County Circuit Court against Susan R. Sandall. He seeks in excess of $15,000 for injuries suffered when walking across Niedringhaus Avenue near Chestnut Street Aug. 10, 1979. He alleges he was struck by the defendant's westbound car and that his left leg was injured in the accident.

Explorers visit 'MARC'

Members of Explorer Post 80, a health occupations specialty post sponsored by Dr. Jack Miller, were explained the functions of the air ambulance in St. Louis.

The helicopter is known as "MARC," which stands for Medical Air Reserve Corps. "MARC" was described as a "flying emergency room" by one of the Explorers.

Patricia King, RN, flight nurse for the St. Louis University Hospital-based operation conducted the tour and answered questions for Post 80 members.

"MARC" covers an area of 125 miles around St. Louis, responding to severe trauma cases, with a top speed of 150 miles per hour. It was noted that "MARC" can transfer a critically-injured patient from from Granite City to the base hospital in four to five minutes. While in flight a specially-trained registered nurse can administer treatment beyond that available in a regular ground-based ambulance.

Access to education essential

The head of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville believes the university should be as accessible as possible to students from "every walk of life and every land on earth."

Earl Lazerson, acting president of SIUE, expressed his conviction on student accessibility in a welcome address at noon Wednesday at the annual conference of the National Association of Foreign Student Affairs, meeting at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

Representing the presidents of all the institutions of higher education in the St. Louis region, Lazerson said, "I am convinced that the best interests of all nations demand that we continue to make American Education as accessible as possible to all foreign students."

The SIUE acting president said the policies of his institution were reviewed in an examination of the SIU system's position on students from Iran.

"Our stance was clear," he said. "We cannot in principle deny access to study at our institution in a manner that would betray our convictions as to freedom of speech and respect for the inherent dignity of mankind. These are the foundations of our academic integrity and, to my mind, our national strength."

Lazerson acknowledged that recent events in foreign affairs have made the answers difficult to questions of student accessibility. "These are singularly unhappy times for international relations," he said.

"A mature sense of history recognizes that anger can calm and disputes can be resolved, although such accomplishments may be generations in the making. 'Yesterday's' enemy becomes tomorrow's ally, and vice versa. So it is incumbent on higher education to keep the possibilities of amity open, while generating the light of wisdom and understanding that helps make reconciliations possible."

Lazerson pointed out that this region is made up of "a rich and diverse blend of ethnic and national groups and organizations, each seeking in its own way to assert a proper pride in its traditions and heritage. From time to time, we experience tensions; but on the whole, there is a healthy spirit of competition and community."

"Many of our local students represent the first generation of their families to have access to higher education. Most of these families were immigrants, who carefully preserve many of the traditions, values and customs of their lands of origin."

"Their memories have not melted into a uniform homogeneity, but serve to remind us that all humankind, like Joseph of the Scriptures, wears a coat of many colors."

"I suggest that we keep appermost in our minds a confidence that all those problems that are human in origin have in them the seeds of human resolution."

"We must offer fertile ground for the cultivation of peace. Our common humanity must be made to bind us more closely than our disparateness will ever separate us."

"Otherwise, not even simple survival will be worth the trouble."

This will be the first of a series of fourth Friday arthritis education clinics in cooperation with the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Persons who have arthritis or would like information on the rheumatic diseases are being encouraged to call on Mrs. Whitson in Madison or to phone her during those hours at 878-9430.

Arthritis Foundation work includes public and patient education, professional training, referral, loan closet, and support of 42 arthritis research centers nationwide.

Vocational education conference

A vocational education conference, with programs for students, coordinators, counselors and teachers in agriculture, business, and distributive and industrial education, will be held Wednesday, May 28, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Individual sessions will begin at 1 p.m. in Meridian Ballroom of the University Center, led by guest experts in curriculum, minority hiring, non-traditional programs and coordination. Agriculture teachers William A. Fortschneier of Jacksonville and Richard Watson of Raymond, president of the Illinois Agriculture Association, will join a 3 p.m. panel on specialization programs of coordination.

The co-op conference, sponsored by the business education department of SIUE and the Illinois Department of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education, includes an optional dinner at 6 p.m. and a 7 p.m. session on "Legislation for the 1980s."

The evening program, a discussion of minimal competencies, coordinator certification in Illinois and Missouri, and targeted jobs tax credit (TJTC), will include state and national labor and vocational leaders.

A special student session, "They Don't Hire the Uglies," will begin at 4:15 p.m. with Lucille Wright, Cleveland State University, who has researched the problem for 10 years.

Throughout the conference, filmed and videotaped sessions on good training sessions, job discrimination by sex, hiring practices research, and the worker as a product of the environment will run continuously.

All conference sessions and materials are free except the $7.50 dinner, according to Patricia Patsloff, SIUE business education department, 692-2732. Pre-registration is requested.

House should adopt Senate bills on transit districts

Because legislation allowing Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties to create one to three mass transportation districts is so important to this community and region, there is cause for jubilation that the concept was enacted Tuesday by the Illinois Senate and endorsed yesterday by the Madison County Board.

A big hurdle remains before the issue can be considered in detail at the county level—favorable action by the Illinois House (followed by the governor's approval).

State Rep. Monroe Flinn said Wednesday he will use his legislative passage of the same legislation adopted by the Senate. We wish him well, and encourage Representatives Sam Wolf, Everett Steele, Jim McPike and others to help in this effort.

Ratings of legislative voting records can be deceptive

We have always been a bit skeptical of various conservative and liberal ratings of legislators, since the scores usually refer to only a few of the votes tallied during a year's time.

Also, support or opposition to legislation can be tempered not only by the subject matter but also by the wording of the amended version. Sponsors have been known to fight their own bills when revised sharply from the original version.

All of which is brought to mind by Congressman Paul Simon's objection to a low rating he received from a group called Christian Voice. It gave him a zero "morality" rating, even though Simon is noted for his morality and his Christian beliefs.

One of the "morality" tests used was

A proposed House amendment requiring a tax referendum process would be ill-advised for several reasons, including the possibility of delaying or destroying the chances of passage and implementation.

What is being considered at Springfield is not a mandatory or arbitrary plan. It would give area counties the authority to pursue—based on their own knowledge and wisdom—ways of assuring plentiful, comfortable, dependable and affordable bus service.

And it would give Madison County a strong voice in transit decisions and a varied reason for controlling the Bi-State Transit System would welcome because of local citizens' and officials' greater familiarity with local needs and wishes.

whether or not a legislator favored creating a separate Department of Education, removing it from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The separation has taken place, and there were many responsible people on both sides of the issue. The two sides voiced varied reasons for and against the points debated seemed to involve morality or immorality.

At least Cong. Simon is in good company. Low ratings also went to Methodist and Baptist ministers and to a Catholic priest.

Christian Voice, meanwhile, gave its best legislative rating to Congressman who has said he accepted $25,000 in cash in the FBI's Abseam investigation. That's morality?

Police need more men, funding

To the Editor:

In regard to your story, "Police on disability," it is my civic duty as a citizen of Madison and a former police officer of my city to bring a few items to the attention of everyone concerned.

Every time it comes close to pay raise time for the members of the police department, they are "not doing their jobs."

However, if the crime rate is down for any given month, that is a sign to me, and should be to everyone else, that the police department is doing a good job to keep the crime down.

To me, the police department should be praised for doing a good job, instead of criticized. With a shortage of manpower, you can only do with what you have.

In reference to only three officers making most of the arrests, that may be true; however, what no one realizes is that the structure of the Madison Police Department has "more chiefs than Indians."

The police department has a chief of police, a lieutenant, four sergeants and five patrolmen.

In any structure, a supervisor does just what it says—he supervises his subordinates to insure that they are doing the job required.

The majority of the good citizens never come in contact with their police department unless something happens and they are needed.

If the response time is cut down through lack of manpower, the police officer is criticized for goofing off. But what the citizen does not realize is that the officer may be on another call.

With only one or two officers working to protect a population of 7,000-plus, the odds of a good response time are very slim.

Every time a pay raise is discussed for the police department, Madison in population is compared to a similarly populated farm town out away from a large population area.

The geographical area is never brought up just the size of the town. However, Madison could be called a central point which connects larger populated areas, such as St. Louis, East St. Louis and Granite City.

So, what is not being said is that, with today's modern means of transport, it is not instead of an 11-man police department for a population of 7,000-plus, you have for all practical purposes 11 men to control a mobile 800,000-plus population.

With those odds, the police department should be praised for doing an outstanding job of keeping crime down.

If you look at it in that respect, the police department is badly undermanned.

When we talk of hiring more men, we are talking of an increase of taxes, and with today's economy no one likes that word.

However, no one would mind the increase in the tax money was used for that purpose instead of being used in different areas.

A statement was made that the officers are not thinking about being active with civic affairs.

The majority of the officers are family men and, they have to badly underpaid, they have to work two jobs to support their families to make ends meet.

The cost of everyday living is the same for them as it is for you and me. Yet, we expect them to make it on a lot less.

An increase of salary and manpower is badly needed for the protection of your family and mine.

If anyone is to be criticized, it should be those who allowed such a shortage to occur.

Let us all take a look at those who caused the shortage, to see if they are doing their jobs.

James E. Eller, 20, of 1203 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested at the home of Patricia Puhl, 2725 Myrtle Ave., at 12:10 p.m. Tuesday. He was charged with criminal damage to property.

The victim alleged Eller kicked a door to her home, open and the door struck the wrist of Eller's mother, Mrs. Mary Eller, who was visiting.

He then allegedly grabbed a new automotive battery and threw it outside, breaking the battery.

Loud and abusive language and threats then were issued against the two women and the man was taken away in a small patrol car and threatened Mrs. Puhl and her son with it, he alleged.

The women told police Eller then went outside, made several dents in Mrs. Puhl's auto and pulled the spark plug wires from the plugs.

Police arrived and arrested Eller, but Associate Judge A. A. Matoski ordered him released on a $2,000 recognizance bond, which does not require the posting of cash. Eller was released at 4:35 p.m. Tuesday.

Smith says strike is threat to plant's future

A. O. Smith Corp. Plant Manager Paul H. Kelly said today he has written a letter, dated May 15, to employees of the plant.

Text of the letter follows: "Regrettably, the strike by UAW Local 1715 which started on April 8, 1980, and is now in its sixth week has no end in sight.

"Since April 8, Commissioner Kelly of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service has called two meetings between the company and the union. One was held on Friday, April 25, 1980 and the other on Tuesday, May 13, 1980.

"At both sessions no progress took place, and the meetings were adjourned. At the moment, no further meetings are scheduled, but the parties are subject to further direction from Commissioner Kelly.

"The company regards the stalemate at the bargaining table and the strike as a serious threat to the future of this plant. This strike could not have occurred at a worse time.

"The automobile industry is seriously depressed, and we of course know that the market for car frames that our plant produces will be eliminated in the near future.

"At this time when we are seeking new product opportunities for our plant, a strike of previous duration in the eyes of a potential customer.

"We accept the responsibility we have for this plant and its employees. For that reason, please be assured that the company's position at the bargaining table is and will continue to be a reasonable one.

"The company has made two proposals to your union to improve your wages, employee benefits and other working conditions. In spite of the poor business outlook for this plant, the company's second proposal would increase hourly labor costs by over $4 per hour for each employee during the new agreement.

"Even at this late date, your union has not made a comprehensive and definitive counterproposal to the company. Instead, we think what the union has given the company is a list of arbitrary ultimatums which leave little or no room for further negotiations.

"We believe employees have a major interest in the future of this plant and, for that reason alone, should have been given the opportunity to vote on the company's proposal. You didn't get that chance; so now, where are we?

"The strike has made it impossible to satisfy customer demands as we near the end of the 1980 model year. We have already lost some of the remaining business and will lose the rest of it if the strike continues.

"We don't know what effect this strike will have on our search for new automotive products. We do know that if we don't get them, this plant will go out of business. This is not a threat! It is a fact!

"Employees are losing wages at the rate of $350 per week. A six-week strike will cost employees $1,300,000 in lost wages. In addition, other benefits may be lost including service toward retirement. This loss of service could reduce the benefit which you and your spouse are counting on for your retirement.

"The communities in which we live will also suffer because of the loss of a weekly payroll which totals $218,750.

"By this time many of you would have been on layoff due to the reduction in our shipping requirements, even if the strike had not occurred. You would be drawing unemployment compensation benefits as high as $177 per week.

"Your strike benefits are a poor substitute. If this strike were settled and you were not immediately recalled to work, you would be able to begin collecting unemployment compensation benefits of which you are now being deprived.

"If this were a serious action, and if taken to truly benefit someone, they may be understandable. However, if a strike causes everyone to lose, then something is radically wrong with it.

"It was important to communicate with you at this time on this matter. Be assured we will continue to work toward an equitable solution to this strike. So much depends on it. In the meantime, we solicit your understanding and support."

The Very Rev. Wilbur L. Lee, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, announced Wednesday that the bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Springfield will make his annual visitation to the local parish on Sunday, May 25, at 10 a.m.

Dean Lear said that the Rt. Rev. Albert W. Hillestad, STD, will visit the parish to celebrate the Holy Eucharist at 4 p.m. and administer the sacrament of confirmation to a class of three candidates.

Immediately following the service, the Episcopal Church Women under the direction of Mrs. Robert Gaumer will serve a light supper to the bishop, the candidates, Dean Lear and the congregation of the parish.

The occasion is considered especially meaningful for the bishop's visit since it is the Feast of the Pentecost, when the Church commemorates the descent of the Holy Spirit. The public has been invited to attend the service. Bishop Hillestad will preach at the mass.

Two juveniles were arrested for the vandalism and a judge ordered them to make restitution to their victims, and Mrs. Schneider received a check for $29.39 from the County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell.

Mrs. Schneider sent the check back to Portell, along with a letter commending police who handled the case. Portell, who has been circuit clerk for 20 years, said it was the first time he had received a restitution money being returned.

The check was accepted Wednesday by the Madison County Board, which awarded the gift to the Madison County Detention Home.

150-ton box arriving here

A big box—weighing 150 tons—and 16x17x101 feet in size—is being shipped here from Great Britain by way of New Orleans, and will be moved Tuesday, May 27, to the Air Products and Chemicals, Inc., in Granite City.

Electric wires have been temporarily moved at the Tri-City Regional Port, and a 200-ton crane valued at $1,300,000 has been rented for the unloading task.

Six "cold boxes" of varying sizes are on the shipment for Air Products, which is expanding its facilities here to serve the increasing needs of Granite City Steel. The biggest of the boxes is valued at in excess of $5 million.

The boxes are used in distilling air into oxygen and nitrogen, a cooling and separating process that requires considerable piping and insulation.

Granite City officials are making final preparations for a public hearing June 24 on the city's wastewater treatment (Act 201) study and conclusions, which is one of the requirements of applying for an EPA grant to repair sanitary sewer breaks.

The city has been seeking the grant since 1978, following numerous sanitary sewer breaks caused by a high water table. Draft copies of the city's wastewater treatment study are being reviewed by the Illinois EPA, the East West Gateway Coordinating Council and the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission for possible comment.

Seek 2nd rail yard

No contracts have been signed but arrangements may be completed next week or the following week for a second railroad yard to serve the Tri-City Regional Port. It was announced this week.

The Port already leases a 44-acre railroad yard at the Granite City Army Installation and has renewed its annual lease for the three tracts that make up that yard.

It hopes to buy about 30 acres from the Illinois Terminal Railroad and 14 acres from A. O. Smith Corp. and then build a rail yard near the plant. The $1,100,000 yard is to be owned by the Port and leased to ITR, which will operate it.

Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab will do design and engineering work up to $50,000. The rail yard will be done by Port Engineer George Andrus. Because of shortages of some materials needed for the rail yard construction, some of the materials will be obtained by the Port.

If industrial revenue bonds are issued, the total may be $1,900,000 to allow for other projects to be included. ITR will pay bonds, interest, 10 percent and a fee for each railroad car.

Yearly revenues of the Port District may rise from $725,464 to $914,227, with expenses increasing from $578,376 to $753,569, but the July 1980-June 1981 budget will not be completed until September.

A new port sign is to be built at West 20th Street. Headed 3 on a 50-foot lot acquired for $2,750. Property near Route 3 is being purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bays for $15,000 for use in possible future development activities.

Road fund lowest in 7 years

The month-end balances in the Illinois Road Fund are at their lowest level this year since the 1972-73 fiscal year period, State Comptroller Roland W. Burris said this week.

The available balance in the fund on April 30 was $36 million. That is $16 million less than the balance at the beginning of fiscal 1979-80 and $46 million less than one year ago.

Total Road Fund revenues for the first 10 months of FY 1980 are $239 million higher, up 36.2 percent, than the same period last year, allowing record spending on Illinois roads.

But the comptroller noted that about 97 percent, or $231 million, of the total increase came from federal funds, while State sources increased $8 million or 1.7 percent, he commented.

"The implication is clear. If state motor fuel taxes continue to decline from reduced driving, and if federal funds are cut back to achieve balanced budgets this year and the year ahead, Illinois must consider new ways to maintain our highways."

"This is a problem that the governor, the General Assembly and the people of Illinois should be considering."

30 million visitors to Arch area

Since statistical accounting of visitors to the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial was instituted on June 3, 1967, 30 million visitors have been counted.

Jerry L. Schober, superintendent of the National Park Service facility, said the 30 millionth was counted without fanfare on Saturday, May 17.

Visitors from foreign countries account for about eight percent of the total, coming from all over the world.

Approximately 20 percent report they are from metropolitan St. Louis; some St. Louisans have visited the Arch many times, perhaps to attend special events, to escort their out-of-town guests, or to see the park, museum, Arch and Old Courthouse.

Visitors who say they are on a vacation vary by seasons of the year, with up to 52 percent doing so in July and only 29 percent doing so in February.

Most visitors spend about two hours at the facility. Convention goes account for 12 percent of the visitors, with seven percent reporting they are in town on business.

The ten-millionth visitor rode to the top of the Gateway Arch on Friday, Aug. 24, 1979. This event was noted by President Carter in his speech at the St. Louis Riverfront following his arrival on the Delta Queen.

Ample fuel for holiday

Memorial Day travelers should have little trouble finding fuel over the holiday weekend. Eighty-one percent of stations contacted say they will be open at least some hours on Monday.

According to the Auto Club's monthly fuel gauge survey of 63 service stations along major highways and Interstates in Missouri and nearby Illinois and Kansas, fuel availability showed an increase again this month, and some self-service prices showed a decrease.

Average full-service gasoline prices remained the same. Survey results show that again this month 54 percent of the stations will close by 8 p.m. on weekdays; 33 percent will close by 6 p.m. on Saturday (38 percent last month); 65 percent will open some hours on Sunday (53 percent last month); and 13 percent will again be open 24 hours.

Madison Federal, Troy firm merge

Shareholders of United Savings and Loan Association have voted to adopt a federal charter and concurrently approve a merger agreement with Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association of Granite City, it was announced jointly by C. A. Henning, president of the former United Savings, and A. H. Froemling, president of Madison County Federal.

The merger, a voluntary action, will join Madison County Federal, with $44 million in assets, and United Savings with $4.5 million in assets, resulting in a $48.5 million dollar thrift institution.

Madison County Federal will operate the existing facility at 120 W. Market St., Troy, Ill., as a branch. There will be no change in the status of savings accounts or mortgage loan accounts as a result of the merger.

Savings are insured to $100,000, Froemling noted. Madison County Federal also operates a branch at Route 159 and Cottonwood Road, Glen Carbon.

Henning and Gene A. Adams have been added to the regular board of directors of Madison County Federal and the remaining directors of the former United Savings, M. C. Shaffer, Terry Adelhardt, Irwin Dollinger, Harold Goertner, Delmar Meier, W. H. Westfall and William S. Freeman were appointed to the Advisory Board of Madison County Federal, Froemling announced.

Mrs. Jacqueline Logan has been appointed branch manager, assisted by Mrs. Gladys Bliss.

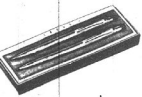

"We are grateful to be a part of the Troy financial community. This area is a growing, viable location which is well situated with respect to transportation, land for development and general stability," Froemling said.

New cases outstrip court dispositions

The Madison County Circuit Court disposed of 4,711 cases of all types during April, but failed to keep up with the 5,433 cases filed during the month, Circuit Clerk Willard "Butch" Portell reported Tuesday.

"This (April) was not a productive month," Portell said, noting that "the court system is working three judges short with Judge (Moses) Harrison in the Appellate Court, Judge (William) Beatty's replacement not appointed and a vacancy in the associate level."

Portell said the total number of cases disposed of last month was "a fair amount" but commented the court was unable to keep current with new filings.

The clerk's report showed that of the 5,433 new cases filed during April, 3,457 of them were traffic cases, 463 ordinance violations, 78 probate cases and 54 conservation violations. Others filed during the month included 81 jury and 26 non-jury law cases asking damages of $15,000 or more, 32 jury and 94 non-jury law cases involving claims of $1,000 to $15,000, 167 divorce cases, 88 family, 70 juvenile, 64 felony and 322 misdemeanor cases. A total of 320 small claim cases also was filed.

Portell said the court had 10,386 cases pending at the beginning of the month, and 10,615 pending at the end of the month.

In the felony division, the report shows that a total of 72 felony cases were disposed of, resulting in 83 defendants convicted, all of them on pleas of guilty which included 31 class two felonies, 15 class three felonies and seven class four felonies.

The court also disposed of 148 petitions for dissolution of marriages.

REVENUE EMPLOYEES CARRY CREDENTIALS

Taxpayers should request to see the credentials of an individual claiming to represent the Internal Revenue Service, the IRS cautioned this week. Occasionally, persons pose as employees of the IRS to collect money for what the impostor refers to as unpaid taxes, it was explained.

In almost every instance taxpayers who owe money will receive written notification before being contacted in person by the IRS. In addition, every IRS employee who makes public contact carries distinctive identification, and is required to show identification when conducting official business. Taxpayers who doubt the validity of the credentials offered can verify the person's employment by immediately contacting the nearest IRS office.

State's top thinclads heading for Charleston

GRANITE CITY (III.) PRESS-RECORD, Thursday, May 22, 1980—21

CHARLESTON—The best track athletes in Illinois will converge on O'Brien Stadium on the campus of Eastern Illinois University here Friday and Saturday at the 86th annual Illinois High School Association boys track and field meet.

The meet will be the sixth straight involving the two-class system. Schools with 750 enrollment or less will take part in the Class 1A meet. Those with 751 or more students enter the class 2A meet. Both will be held concurrently.

Madison High School, usually one of the top Class 1A track teams in the state, has had an off-year of sorts. But the Trojans still managed to advance seven athletes.

Madison's Troy Butler,

one of the top leapers in the area, advanced in both of his "specialties," the long jump and the triple jump. Butler was the district champion in the long jump and finished second in the triple jump.

Madison's 1600 (mile) relay team and its 800 meter relay team also qualified. Members of the 1600 meter squad are Ray Price, Orlando Buckles, Keith Edwards and Richard Borney. They finished second in their event in a time of 3:23.3. The 800 meter squad, which finished second in 1:35.3, consists of Charles Dixon, Terrence Haynes, Borney and Edwards.

Granite City South advanced three athletes out of its sixth place finish at the Belleville East District. Distance runner Dave Houston turned in the second-fastest district time in the state Saturday when he finished first in 4:19.3 (see related story). Steve Adams of South qualified in the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet, and Mike Konzen advanced in the shot put.

The preliminary competition Friday will get underway in all field events and all the running events except the 3200 meter run at 9 a.m. Qualifiers for the Saturday finals in those events will be determined in an eight-hour session Friday. The finals are scheduled to begin in the field events at 11 a.m. Saturday. The annual opening ceremony will take place at 11:55 a.m. The first running event final will be at 12:15 p.m.

This year's finals will be televised state-wide on the IHSN Network (see related story).

The rains which drenched the state last weekend did not prevent all the individual events champions from last year from returning. However, district performances were hampered. Among the returning Class 1A state champions from last season are Gary Bremer of Metropolis in the 3200 meter run and Mike Conley of Luther South in the triple jump. Class 2A champs returning are Tony Adams of Elgin in the 400 meter dash, Tony Guercio of Naperville in the 800 meter run and Mike Sokolewicz of Thornton Harvey in the 3200 meter run.

The scramble of team honors in both classes is wide open. Luther South is the defending 1A champion. Evanston is the 2A champ. A strong challenge for the 1A title could be made by Chicago Christian. East St. Louis Lincoln is a top contender for the 2A title. The competition at the state finals will be conducted for the first time in meters instead of feet.

DAVE HOUSTON

Houston top hope for GC

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record GRANITE CITY — Suddenly, people are starting to notice Dave Houston all over again.

Houston, one of the top distance runners in the state as a sophomore at Granite City South two years ago, sort of blended into the crowd last year as a junior. He began this season slowly. But he's picked up a head of steam that could take him all the way to the state 2A championship in his specialty—the mile run.

Houston and two Warrior teammates, Steve Adams and Mike Konzen, will travel to Charleston Friday for the annual IHSN State Boys Track Meet at Eastern Illinois University. Houston turned in the second-fastest district time in the state last Saturday when he ran away from the field to win at the Belleville East District.

Houston's clocking of 4:19.3 didn't surprise him, even though it took place on a rainy, windy afternoon. "I knew I could probably run it that fast," he said. "But I

Illinois stars lose

By RICK WELLS
For the Press-Record
COLLINSVILLE — The gym was hot. The game was delayed. The All-Stars were less than spectacular. But most of the 1,500 or so fans stayed around to watch the Missouri All-Stars defeat the Illinois All-Stars last night at Fletcher Gymnasium, 98-83. All was moving along smoothly for the annual contest, sponsored by WIBV radio. The Illinois girls had just defeated Missouri's squad, 98-75, and the boys were taking their warmups. At one end of the court the Illinois stars were doing layup drills. A fan in the stands could be heard yelling, "Stuff it, Bill!" The fan had nothing against Collinsville's 6-8 star forward Bill Mosier, but rather wanted Mosier to dunk the ball. No sooner than a thirsty spectator could get in line for a Coke the Illinois players turned the layup drill into a slam-dunk contest, much to the cheers of the crowd.

At the other end of the court, the Missouri stars caught on quickly and decided to have their own dunking contest. Bang! One dunk. Bang! Another dunk. Crash! The third dunk missed.

Mark Priest, a 6-4 forward from Beaumont, hung on the rim a little too long and shattered the glass backboard, ala Darrell Dawkins. The fans who were cheering gave way to agitated spectators who had to wait more than an hour for the backboard to be replaced. Once the backboard was replaced, the Illinois partisan crowd cheered the

Tigers clinch GEC; down Warriors 6-4

EDWARDSVILLE — The Edwardsville Tigers clinched the championship of the Gateway East Conference here Tuesday with a 6-4 victory over Granite City South at Hoppe Field.

If South had won, Edwardsville would have shared a co-championship of the GEC with rival Granite City North. But with the win, the Tigers finished the conference schedule with a 7-1 record. North finished at 6-2, both losses coming at the hands of Edwardsville. The Tigers' lone loss was to Cahokia.

Tuesday against South, Edwardsville jumped out to an early lead but had to hold off a last-inning rally by the Warriors to secure the victory.

Edwardsville scored three runs in the third inning and three more in the fifth. South scored once in the fifth and three times in the top of the seventh inning. But the rally fell just short.

Freshman Pat Lihari was the losing pitcher for the Warriors. He scattered seven hits. South also had seven hits against winning pitcher Al Scheibal. Both teams had one error each. However, South's was a little more costly, as it allowed three unearned runs to cross the plate for Edwardsville. Three of South's runs were earned. South's Lihari poured a triple and had three runs batted in. Catcher Steve Ficker was three-for-three at the plate.

South ended its regular season with a 12-21 record and will begin the Class 2A regional playoffs at Belflo today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. Should the Warriors win, they will play at home in the semifinals Saturday. The finals are set for next Tuesday.

Other teams entered in the regional are Granite City North, Roxana, Edwardsville, Alton, Wood River, Jerseyville and Piasa South, western.

Buer's blast propels North

By KEVIN ALLEN
For the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY—BANG. With one swipe, Granite City North's Rick Buer did what 18 batters had been trying to do for five innings—end an extra inning marathon of a game played so tightly it was hard to remember that these were indeed high school teams.

Buer's swing ended the game in the 12th. It sent Belleville East pitcher John Boyle's fast ball over the left-field fence, gave North a 2-1 win.

"It was just a good clutch performance," North coach Bob Stegemeier said of the homer. "But that's the way we've been going. The home run wasn't hit by a senior. Not just one or two guys have carried us, we've been getting good effort up and down."

But it wasn't only Buer. Clutch performances were the rule in the game instead of the exception. Both teams played flawlessly, even spectacularly at times.

North used a combination of three pitchers, who together allowed Belleville only six hits in the twelve innings. Four of those hits came in the first two innings, which allowed East to score its only run.

In the second inning, with North's starting pitcher Kevin Cripps on the mound, Belleville made the most of a rare, back-to-back hit opportunity. With one out, East's Chris Castiller reached first on a bunt single and stole second. Designated hitter Dave Slimak then spanked a double through to the left field fence, chasing Castiller home from second.

That was that. For ten more innings, East failed to score. The closest the Lancers came was in the fourth, then Castiller again singled, and stole second and third. Slimak walked and stole second, setting up what may have been the best defensive play in a game filled with sparkling defense. Cripps caught Slimak too far off second, but when he threw to the base Slimak left for third. Castiller then broke for the plate and Steeler second baseman Dan Patterson threw to catcher Darrell DePew. The throw was in the dirt, though, and it looked as if Castiller would score. But DePew dug the ball out, dived at Castiller, forcing the runner out of the base line for the out.

It was one of four plays at the plate, that came down runners for both teams.

"Both teams just executed perfectly," Stegemeier said. "It's just one of the best games I've seen in a long time."

Of course, Stegemeier's enthusiasm for the crisply played game might have been dampened somewhat if not for the performances of Buer and the North pitchers.

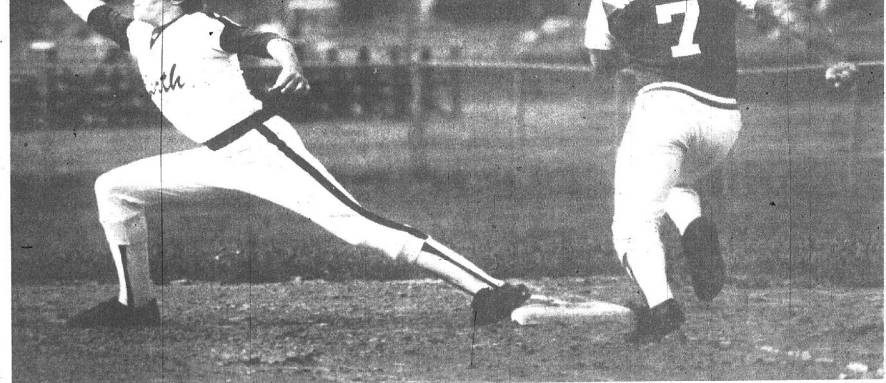

After Cripps left in the fourth, Steelers Greg Faulkner and Keith Burton combined for 10 hitless innings. Coming as it did just two days before the beginning of post-season play, made the North coach that much more satisfied.

"I'm confident," Stegemeier said, "I hope the kids are. I think their frame of mind is good. With a game like this it probably can't help but be."

Stegemeier said he's convinced the Steelers have four pitchers who can work four or five strong innings each. "We'll just use them all every game if we have to. I'm not afraid of using any of them at any time."

Pitching, until now, has been North's greatest concern. But against Belleville, it was the Steelers usually noisy bats that were strangely quiet.

The North scored first in the sixth inning when Bob Batey walked, stole second, and

STRETCH-CH. Granite City North first baseman Dennis Page (left) stretches to take a throw from shortstop Bob Batey Tuesday during his team's 7-2 victory over Alton. The Redbirds' Scott Wallace tries to beat the throw to first. The win gave the scored on Bob Ford's single. seventh, represented the double play backfired. "That's a play where you look like a genius when it works," Stegemeier said. "But you look a little foolish when it doesn't."

"It's the way we play though. We force the other team to make mistakes. You have to be in high school baseball."

State tennis meet begins today

Warriors district champs

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City South Warrior tennis team won it all here Monday in their own IHSA Class 2A District meet.

The Warriors won the team championship with 114 points. Wood River was second with 46, Alton 34, Bethalto 4, Roxana 2, Granite City North 1 and Jerseyville 1.

The championship means that South's entire team will advance to this weekend's state finals, to be held in Arlington Heights near Chicago.

South's doubles team of George Sykes and John Menendez finished first by defeating teammate Ed Schmulbach and Terry Malench 6-2, 2-6, 6-4. In singles, Wood River's Bruce Higgins defeated Joe Ingram of Alton in the finals 7-5, 6-2.

South coach Dick Harmon said his team's showing was not unexpected. "I thought we'd win it," he said. "In fact, things went the way I thought they would up and down the line, I guess."

Only surprise would be in singles. (Tom) Longos finished third when he was seeded fourth. But when they're that close, you really can't call it a surprise."

Longos of South, who went into the tournament seeded fourth, finished third. He lost to Higgins 6-2, 6-4 in the semifinals but came back to defeat Roxana's Ed O'Neill 6-0 in the third place match. On his way to the third place match, O'Neill defeated South's Pat Theis in the first round.

In the first round, Longos defeated Kendall Whittington of Granite City North 6-0, 6-1. He beat Prefon Stampos 6-1, 6-0 in the second round before meeting Higgins, the top seed, in the semifinals.

Golf clinics slated

GRANITE CITY — A series of golf clinics has been announced by Arlington Golf Course, located between Granite City and Collinsville off State Aid Route 35.

The clinics will be conducted by Granite City North High golf coach Russ Chappell. The first clinic will run May 27-30 and June 2-4 for ladies. Starting time each day will be 6 p.m.

The second clinic will run June 9-12 for those ages 11 through 19. Starting time for each session will be 9 a.m. Chappell has announced that individual lessons will also be available.

Those wanting further information about the clinics or lessons may contact Chappell at 931-2595.

Along their way to the doubles title, Sykes and Menendez (after a first round bye) defeated Lauren and Nidoar of Bethalto 6-1, 6-1 and Wood River's Rosenthal and Guear 6-2, 6-2 before meeting Schmulbach and Malench in the finals.

Schmulbach and Malench, who played number one doubles for South all season, also had a first round bye. In the second round, they defeated Paul and Wooley of Wood River 6-2, 6-1. They downed Tom Walters and Tom Hayes of Alton 6-3, 4-6, 6-2 in the semifinal round. Granite City North's Bob Slate was a first round winner. He defeated Jerseyville's Dan Ringhausen 6-0, 6-4 before losing to Alton's Ingram in the second round. In doubles, North's Rob Fyalka and Dave Hemphill lost to Rosenthal and Guear 6-2, 6-1 in the first round. The Steelers' Tim Rogenski and Mike Trittschuh lost to Paul and Wooley 7-5, 6-1 in the first round.

The district title was South's first since 1977. But despite the strong showing, Harmon accessed his team's chances at the state meet as slim. "Slim at best," he said.

"Up there in Chicago, it's a hotbed of tennis. Hinsdale Central has won it something like eight or nine times in a row."

"I just hope we get a good draw in the first round and do our best."

Harmon said two other area schools, O'Fallon and Belleville West, probably have stronger chances at the state finals. "I think both West and O'Fallon should do pretty well up there," he said. "They've got the players to do it."

South finished its regular season as undefeated (8-0) Gateway East Conference champions and had an overall record of 16-4.

Corral wins I-C opener

By TOM SCHOCKER

For the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — Monday night didn't have the exciting pageantry you'd expect from the opening of another baseball season.

It marked the debut of one of Granite City's two entries in the I-Corral League, Corral Liquor. In their opener, the Cowboys gave the rest of the league something to think about.

Behind strong relief pitching from Eldon Warfield and Randy Lyerla, Corral grabbed the early league lead with a pair of victories over Edwardsville 9-1 and 6-1 at Hoppe Field.

The league season officially got underway May 11, as Edwardsville and East Alton split their doubleheader.

Originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon, the contest between Corral and Edwardsville was to be played at Wilson Park had to be cancelled because of rain. It was rescheduled for the Monday night in Edwardsville.

"We don't have some of our other good players yet," said Cowboy head coach Ken Crawford. "When we get those guys, we'll do better than tonight."

Corral's performance looked as though they didn't need anyone to help. With a line-up of players new to each other, the Cowboys worked like a team that has been playing together for months.

Wasting no time Corral jumped on Edwardsville's starting pitcher Gary Riechmann for a lone run in the first. Warfield provided the spark they needed by drawing a walk. He stole second and found a line-up on a passed ball. When Tom Greco grounded out, he promptly scored. In fact, Warfield's keen eye enabled him to reach base three times on walks.

Doug Rains backed up the Cowboys from the mound, with four strong innings of pitching. He was forced to exit the game with a sore arm. "My arm just started to tighten up between innings," said Rains. Despite this, he had done his job. Shutting out the Nationals on three hits, he struck out three while walking three.

Lyerla took to the hill in the fifth and gave up Edwardsville's only tally, but still stopped them on all accounts. Using the strikeout pitch as his bread and butter, Lyerla fanned five batters in three innings, allowing just two hits.

Eying up Riechmann, the Cowboys found out what it took to hit the 6'6" hurler.

The second time around in the line-up Mike "Booby" Clark and Greco fired up their bats. Crashing out a pair of doubles apiece, they knocked in six runs between them. "We've got good pitching," said National head coach Luco. "They'll come around. Once they have pitched a little, they'll be all right. The fact is, they haven't been able to throw."

Corral scored four times in each of the third and fourth innings to nail down its first victory as a new member in the league. "We didn't have our centerfielder or shortstop," said Luco. "That certainly hurt us defensively."

The temperature dropped and the mist rolled in. But no matter how hard it was to keep the ball dry, the Cowboys still managed to swat it around. Warfield went from his usual infield position to one of a relief pitcher in game two.

really didn't think it'd be that high up in the state. Houston's time was bettered only by Billy Vaughn of Bremen High near Chicago. But just barely. Vaughn's time was 4:19.2, also in the rain.

"I'm starting to get a lot of college feelers on Dave," said South head coach Mel Bunting. "Once he broke 4:20, they started noticing." Bunting said the fact that Houston's time ranked so high is encouraging. "But there have been faster times this season," he said. "A lot of it depends on the weather at Charleston. Houston, working out in preparation for the state meet, said he takes it all in stride. "There has been a 4:08 run this season," he said. "So I know there are some guys up there who've run it faster than I have. But what confuses is what happens Friday and Saturday." Houston's biggest asset is his speed. "Some people call it a "kick," said Houston. "I've become smarter as to when to use it. I used to start coming around the third turn on the last lap. But by then, the other guy might have been too far ahead for me to catch him. Now I start it coming out of the second turn. It's working better that way."

And how. Houston has once again become the scourge of the area distance runners. In the recent Madison County Meet, he trailed Collinsville's Mike Eamy by over 20 yards going into the last lap. But he turned on the speed in the second turn, passed Eamy going into the last turn and won it going away.

"That's probably as far I've ever come from behind to win a race," said Houston. "I don't want to be that far back this weekend." According to Bunting, the big accomplishment is reaching the finals. "Now, it's just up to there, have a good time, and do your best."

maintenance men. They had little else to cheer about the rest of the evening.

Missouri had a secret weapon hiding in the wings — Northwest's 8-3½ forward Darrell Anderson. A Missouri coach Randy Albrecht of Meramec Community College must have called earlier in the afternoon for air clearance as Anderson flew high to reject six shots and get called on two goal tending violations.

"He was a 6-3½ rejection machine," Albrecht said about Anderson. "And that's about all the taller he is. But he plays like he's 6-8." Anderson was surrounded by fans congratulating him for winning the Missouri most valuable player award for the evening. His mild-mannered personality was quite a contrast to his devastation on the court. Anderson said he only plays that well "when I'm depressed. The Illinois coach claimed to be the better weapon in the wings and I wanted to show them differently," he said.

"All it is, is a matter of timing," Anderson said of his rejection. "I was really pleased since this is my last game in high school." He'll be attending St. Louis University next year. Supporting Anderson were Robert Turner of McKinley with 14 points, Rick Caistera of DeSmet and Tracy Moore of Beaumont each had 12 points.

The Illinois All-Stars had trouble getting on the right track from the start. Missouri jumped out to an 8-2 lead and Illinois never seemed to recover. Missouri led 22-18 at the end of the first quarter and still led by four at the half, 48-44.

Granite man runs on and on and . . .

GRANITE CITY — Granite Cityan Arthur Roseman is an athlete. There's nothing so unusual about that. He's involved in track. Distances, you know. There's nothing unusual about that, either.

He's also 82 years old. Combine that with the first two facts. Now, that's unusual.

Roseman won the one mile walk-race last week at the annual Senior Olympics at STU-Edwardsville. He was the oldest competitor among the 74 there. The event was the regional meet, which qualifies Roseman for the state meet in Springfield in September. It was sponsored by the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging and was for those 55 years and older.

Roseman worked as a painting contractor until he was 80. He said he bowls three times a week to stay in shape.

ART ROSEMAN

Other events in the Senior Olympics included the 50 and 100 yard dashes, the broad jump, horsehoes, shot put, bicycling, swimming at bowling.

Roseman was also active for many years in area civic groups, including the Optimists Club.

PONDEROSA'S PLAYER OF THE WEEK

GRANITE CITY — As the saying goes, "A Hollywood script couldn't have done it any better."

It was the bottom of the twelfth inning. The score was tied 1-1. Two of the top high school baseball teams in the area were battling it out. The way things looked, it could go on forever.

Up to the plate steps "The Kid."

The Kid. You know, the hero is always called The Kid in the movies.

Well, this Kid steps to the plate. You can guess the rest. He booms a home run over the left field fence and after a marathon of baseball, everybody can go home.

The home team, the good guys in white, have won 2-1.

That's exactly what happened Monday to Granite City North's Rich Buer, who came out of the bullpen with a 12th inning hom run to give the Steelers a 2-1 victory over Belleville East.

For that reason, Buer has been named this week's Ponderosa — Press-Record Player of the Week.

Humanitarian approach to the ailing

Humanitarianism was the theme of an Optimist Club luncheon which had speakers from St. Elizabeth Medical Center representing the Auxiliary, social work and home health care.

After an introduction by Optimist President John Voyles, SEMC Vice-President Paul Raczkiewicz spoke briefly on the theme of humanitarianism in hospital work, stating, "It often means going above and beyond the call of duty to see that a patient's needs are met."

Raczkiewicz introduced Helen Berfield, president of SEMC Auxiliary, who told of the many ways that her group serves the patients and associates (employees). Auxiliary members operate the coffee shop, raising funds that provide scholarships; contribute to the Medical Center building fund, and purchase new hospital equipment.

"The Auxiliary is a volunteer organization providing those little extra touches in a patient's hospital stay," Mrs. Berfield said. "Although the Auxiliary members aren't paid, the rewards are great."

Ralph Hausmann, director of the Social Work Department, described social work as the "glue" of the department. "She explained that when patients have problems that cannot be handled by any other department, social service goes to work on it."

The department helps patients find financial assistance, clothes in emergencies, and even housing after discharge.

In one case that she cited, transportation home was found for an out-of-state traveler who had been treated at the local center.

Introducing the newest SEMC service, home health care, Mary Heilige, director of the program, explained its advantages. "It has been shown that patients often recuperate faster at home," she said.

The home health program provides skilled nurses to treat patients in their homes, thus reducing the length of hospital stay and providing the family and patient an alternative to nursing home institutionalization.

"Home health care is more economical, a fact that is becoming apparent to insurance companies as more of them are beginning to cover the cost of the program," she said.

"Home health care nursing is both challenging and rewarding," Mary Heilige said, explaining that teaching patients and their families is an important part of the program.

"We are working with the patient on his own turf. The patient is not bound by hospital rules and settings; nurses must remember that they are guests in the patient's home. "We cannot force our ideas on the patient; we work with him or her in the framework of his or her lifestyle."

Plan detour on Rt. 3 in Brooklyn

The Illinois Department of Transportation reports that I-55, Rt. 3, Illinois Route 3, Brooklyn, will be closed through traffic from 8 a.m. Tuesday, May 27, through Monday, June 2.

The closure is necessary due to reconstruction of the grade crossing of the Southern Railway Company.

The crossing is being reconstructed with timber crossing materials by railroad forces in accordance with terms of an agreement with the Department of Transportation in order to provide a smoother and safer crossing. During this closure, the Norfolk and Western will perform maintenance on its crossing.

Signing and traffic control devices will be provided to guide motorists. The department is requesting that motorists be "patient and cautious when traveling."

JAW IS BROKEN

Paul Damrath, 19, of Rural Route Two, Granite City, suffered a broken jaw when he was beaten by another young man after a birthday party in the 2400 block of Iowa Street, police were told Monday afternoon. The injury was incurred Saturday night. Damrath said he was getting in his car when one of the guests at the party tried to close the car door on him and then struck him repeatedly with a fist, until other guests pulled the assailant off Damrath. He was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for surgery.

SIUE responsibility to be tough, tender

Earl Lazerson, acting president of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, believes the university has a responsibility to be both "tough and tender-minded at the same time."

Addressing the university's annual Honors Day convocation Sunday afternoon, Lazerson said, "We must be tough-minded in the assessment of our problems and our assets."

"We must be tender-minded in recognizing that the problems involve human needs and that the assets are given to us in trust, particularly at an institution supported by public funds."

The acting president pointed to both the beauty and problems of this region, using words expressed by philosopher William James of Boston in 1907, when he described the situation of the day.

"While our campus possesses a calm and quiet beauty," Lazerson said, "parts of the region we serve are not only 'multitudinous,' 'tangled,' 'muddy,' 'painful' and 'perplexed,' they are also filled with citizens concerned about their basic human dignity, anxious about their livelihoods, and in need of the most fundamental health and social services."

He praised the more than 1,000 students who received Honors Day recognition, saying, "You have shown the capacity to exercise tough-minded discipline."

"With the gracious formation of the festivities, however, comes a recognition that gentle, courteous ways must not be ignored."

"In the environment in which we live, we must be tough-minded in our determination to make it clean and fit for healthful human habitation."

"But more tenderly directed there should be a make it attractive and beautiful, as a place where men and women can live in dignity and realize the happiness to which they aspire."

Lazerson warned that the work of the university is evolving at a time when the nations of the earth are showing difficulty in getting along with each other.

"Instead of cooperating so that we can make the world a better place for all, we may soon be at each other's throats over what will be our share of the resources of nature and production," he said.

"The lesson of all this is that, to use James' terms, we must be both tough and tender-minded at the same time."

"The tough arts of industry and business produce the prosperity in which the tender arts of the liberally educated can flourish and be appreciated."

"Many of the participants in the Honors Day convocation are the first members of their families to have access to higher education."

"You can be tender-minded in your gratitude to those who have helped you recognize the excellence within you. But you must also be tough-minded in recognizing the hard challenges that were overcome by your parents and grandparents and that now face your less fortunate compatriots."

"To all the honorees, the acting president said, "In what you have achieved, you have not only been true to your own hopes and ambitions, but you have also reflected brilliantly on the university."

"You have been equal to the challenges of excellence and, in some cases, you have helped to improve on them."

"Your focus has not been downward in the sense that you seek to rise above the average. You have looked upward to the best, and sought to better it, thereby enriching our existence."

"Our university will continue to pursue quality and the communication of knowledge."

"As the university engages the future, we will also have to be tough-minded to ensure that we are addressing the pressing concerns of the region that will provide us our future students."

"But we must also cultivate those virtues of compassion, of generosity of spirit, and of a fundamental belief in the dignity of all peoples, so that our mission is always tempered by its human purpose."

"If we can reconcile these differences and keep them in balance, then we will be worthy of those who are being honored today."

3 years in burglary case

Randall Middleton, 19, St. Louis, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Victor J. Moskele in Madison County Circuit Court to serve three years in prison after Middleton pleaded guilty to burglary.

He and another young man allegedly were captured inside the apartment of Margo Taylor in the 2700 block of Kirkpatrick Homes Oct. 1, 1979. Neighbors saw one young man crawl through a window and then admit the second young man through the door.

The two allegedly were still inside when police arrived. The other young man involved previously was sentenced to serve four years in prison.

Orders probation, $200 restitution

Wanda Sue Davis, 18, of 2605 Iowa St., who also allegedly uses the name Wanda Sue Noon, according to police, has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve one and one-half years of probation and to make $200 in restitution after she pleaded guilty to forgery.

She and another woman were arrested following a detailed investigation into the use of false identification cards to open checking accounts and to use worthless checks in the St. Louis area.

Two men also were taken into custody, but have been released. Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence after Wanda Sue Davis pleaded guilty to the charge, which alleged that she used a forged check on Jan. 19.

85-day jail term ordered

Larry Lee Cox, 25, of 206 Allen St., Eagle Pass, Texas, has been sentenced to serve 85 days in the Madison County Jail and two years of probation after pleading guilty to a felony charge of theft.

It is alleged that he and another young man were removing tires from a car in the 1000 block of Douglas Street Dec. 29, 1979, when seen by an off-duty Venice officer.

The other man was arrested, but Cox allegedly fled and was shot by a nearby Madison policeman. He has since recuperated from his wound.

Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence.

Offer good through May 31, 1980

In these days of fuel shortages and high energy costs, an energy-efficient Heatilator® Fireplace can make a big difference in your comfort and your heating bill.

Now is the time to buy, because you'll get a $229 set of Heatilator glass doors FREE with the new Heatilator® EP Fireplace. Glass doors give your fireplace extra safety and efficiency — to keep out sparks and cold air while preventing warm air (and money) from going up the chimney.

You can put a Heatilator EP Fireplace almost anywhere in your house, because it's UL listed for zero clearance against combustible floors and walls. Easy to install, too — you can do it yourself with a few simple tools.

And what will you have? A fireplace that really puts out heat (the EP stands for Energy Pack).

With an optional feature in the complete EP system, outside air is used for combustion. Inside air is heated and recirculated back into the room by a forced air fan (heat can be ducted to other rooms, too). You still get the pretty fire, but you'll also save a pretty penny on heating costs!

haven't you gone without a Heatilator Fireplace long enough?

Tennis elbow can last a year

By DR. STUART FRANK

SIU School of Medicine

Tennis elbow undoubtedly existed long before anyone invented tennis, a racket or a net. With the recent surge of interest in tennis, it has become a popular affliction and a major orthopedic problem.

It's a disease of politicians and handshakers, of painters, dentists and assembly line workers—anyone who has to squeeze his or her hand or an instrument tightly may suffer from a painful tennis elbow.

When you have the problem, the discomfort can be produced by doing simple tasks like lifting a suitcase or turning a doorknob.

The tenderness just below the outer bone of the elbow is associated with an inflammation of the muscles of the forearm.

Here is how to tell if you have a tennis elbow: hold your arm straight out, palm down, on a table. Raise your hand, but not your arm, off the table with your opposite hand or a friend pushing down against your wrist. Or try twisting your wrist against resistance.

If these movements cause pain, you have lateral epicondylitis or tennis elbow. In many patients the problem isn't tennis "elbow" but more appropriately tennis "forearm," since the muscles in the forearm are most commonly involved.

A little prevention can be useful in avoiding an aching elbow.

Rub your elbow or apply heat and do some gentle isometric exercises—try pushing your firm backhand against a wall or holding your racket while you try a backhand—before starting to play. This may help prevent the pain.

Most players notice that the aching and pain decrease and become more tolerable after a few minutes of play.

Some experts recommend wearing elastic bands around the elbow and at the wrist to give added support for the stretched muscles.

It seems logical to change to a racket with a larger grip so you don't have to squeeze as tightly, and to consider changing to a racket which is not as tightly strung to lessen the sudden impact of the ball on the elbow.

Some experts feel that exercises to strengthen the muscles of the forearm are of some benefit, but these probably are more preventive than therapeutic.

Wait until acute pain has subsided before starting an exercise program. Then exercise regularly, or all your efforts will be in vain.

Of course, aspirin or similar mild painkillers are standard treatment for an uncomfortable elbow or forearm.

These are more potent medications which have more serious side effects. It seems that these are a high price to pay for an often tolerable discomfort. Try aspirin or something similar in generous doses before you consult your physician for something stronger.

It usually isn't necessary to sit out the rest of the season and put your tennis racket away.

Your tennis elbow probably will persist or recur in its most painful form for as much as a year, almost regardless of what you do, including playing tennis. It will then gradually subside.

SIU board's bylaws revised

A proposal for revisions of bylaws and statutes of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees has been submitted to the board for information and reaction. Approval of the revisions will be sought at the June 12 meeting of the board.

University officers said the overall purpose of the revisions is not to create new board policy but to restate existing policy in light of current circumstances. The specific purposes of the revisions are:

—To make up-to-date the policies of the board, particularly in view of recent changes in the governing administrative structure of the university.

—To reflect in statements of policy the appropriate divisions of responsibility and authority among the board, the chancellor and the presidents; and —To organize into a usable reference document the official statements of board policy.

The bylaws are statements concerning the organization, procedures and functions of the board itself. The statutes are statements concerning the broad administrative structure and purposes of the internal organization of the university.

The proposed changes in bylaws are generally of two types: editorial changes intended to clarify otherwise unclear or inaccurate statements, and changes to relocate statements currently found in other sections of the board's code of policy.

Aside from editorial changes intended to clarify existing statements, the proposed revisions in the statutes fall into two general categories—the relocation of statements currently found in other chapters of the code of policy which are more appropriately located in the statutes, and vice versa; and the removal of statements from the statutes which are either obsolete or which deal with authority now delegated to the chancellor.

The proposed changes were developed in the office of chancellor and shared with the board and the campuses through the presidents for their reaction. Several comments and suggestions for changes were incorporated in the final proposals submitted to the board.

Girl jockey at Fairmount

By JOHN SCULLY

In most occupations,

determination and

dedication usually are the keys to success, which bodes

well for a young jockey named Kerma Moore.

Kerma began her career as a jockey last August in Chicago at Balmoral Park.

The 21-year-old native of St. Louis County had been an exercise girl for the previous two years, working at

Fairmount Park here and later in Chicago.

Kerma has been around horses all of her life, as her grandparents owned a farm in Cedar Hill. As a youngster, she showed hunters and jumpers. So, it was only natural that her love of horses would bring her to the race track.

A friend, Sharon Kurek, wife of jockey Gary Kurek, first introduced her to life on the backstretch. Kerma started as most horsemen or horsewomen begin, as a groom.

Her first employer was

Ron Brandenburg, but she said that she didn't work too long for him because he gallops all of his own horses, and needed only a groom and not an inexperienced

exercise girl.

Her first break, as far as becoming an exercise rider, was with trainer Bob Lunnemann. She then went to Chicago, where she was instructed by trainer Russell

Breaux, jockey Charlie

Breaux's father.

She then began working for one of the finest trainers

in the country, Encheco E. It was at his insistence, and that of trainer Dean Ruth,

that she became a jockey.

The transition from exercise rider to jockey was not an easy one, for she weighed 140 pounds.

Determined to be a race

rider, Kerma shed over 30 pounds to obtain her jockey's license.

KERMA MOORE

Being a jockey isn't as glamorous an occupation as many people believe it to be.

It takes constant hard work to stay in peak condition.

A typical morning for Kerma will find her working

10 to 15 horses. So, despite her lack of race mounts in the first month of the

Fairmount Park season,

only 10, she is still very fit.

Kerma has yet to reach the winner's circle, not due to lack of ability or desire, but the quality of horses that she has ridden. The average odds on the horses she is aboard would be about 60-1.

As Kerma herself says,

"It's a vicious cycle. You only get good horses if you're riding well. But you can't show your riding talent on horses that always finish 20 or more lengths back."

Being an apprentice

jockey is not an easy job, and being a woman makes it doubly tough. Kerma has no agent like most of the riders, and picks up the horses she rides by working them out in the mornings.

Being a woman limits the number of horses that she has a chance to ride, because some trainers will not use a girl jockey.

Many always point to the strength factor, but — as she points out — it really isn't a tug-of-war between jockey and horse during a race. It's working together as a team.

Many times, she has asked to ride a certain horse in a race only to hear the trainer say that the horse is hard to handle. However, later on, this same trainer will ask her to work the horse in the morning, which certainly doesn't make sense.

Kerma is a young woman who knows what she wants.

She says that some of her friends have asked why she doesn't give up, because of the long hours and the lack of race rides. She says she has worked too hard to give up now and, besides, she likes what she is doing.

She adds that if she could go on to be a top jockey, nothing could be more fantastic. Kerma has the determination; all she needs is a good horse and a chance.

Sings of all kinds—their only business

A two-man operation is beginning its fourth year of business here and over the past three years has proven itself able to tackle even the biggest jobs.

Signs are its business and ColorFax is its name.

Many of its products are seen daily by hundreds of people and serve as a means of informing the public. And even though the firm has produced some very large signs recently, hand painted signs are the still the mainstay of the business.

ColorFax shares a building with a trucking firm at the rear of the property.

The business began doing hand-painted lettering on vehicles as well as signboards. This is still being stressed as the prime product.

Headingsales is Dave Seevers, below, right in the truck. He comes here from Florida, where he has been in the sign business for 17 years. A total of 29 years of experience is shared by the twosome.

They produce a wide variety of signs in the small shop and recently expanded their services to include silk screening. This process is used when a quantity of identical signs is needed.

Silk screened signs can be produced up to four by eight feet.

One of the biggest jobs they have undertaken is the large lettering on the west side of Granite City High School North, top left photo. The lettering spans a distance of 90 feet across the building and each letter is four feet tall. The sign, which requires little or no maintenance, has been widely praised for its visibility and the appropriateness of its appearance on the wall facing Maryville Road at Route 203.

ColorFax has also done some hand painted signs for the Tri-City Port District, lower right photo, erected on Route 3 and Rock Road. Other signs have also been painted and mark various firms and services at the port.

At the far left are the signs erected by ColorFax in front of the old Nameoki fire station for the Lion's Mane, Gitchoff and Wallis law offices and Tacole.

Another type of sign offered is the illuminated changeable copy sign. It can be leased from ColorFax and allows the customer the opportunity to change the lettering on the sign at will. Such signs are used to mark grand openings, sales promotions and other events.

Large or small, short or tall, hand painted or silk screened—if it's a sign, Meeks and Seevers say, ColorFax can do it.

VFW Post 1300 honors Hagnauer

Nelson "Nellie" Hagnauer, Granite City Township supervisor and chairman of the Madison County Board, was honored during the weekend by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300.

Hagnauer was presented a plaque and a life membership in the Granite City VFW post in recognition of his election this year to the Illinois Softball Hall of Fame.

The honoree played softball as a member of the Post 1300 team in 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Presentation of the plaque and membership award was made by Larkin Conway, who served as post commander in the era during which Hagnauer played softball for the VFW.

Conway was assisted by his son, Robert Conway, also a past commander.

The event took place following installation ceremonies for new officers of Post 1300.

On Sunday, members of the post and its auxiliary unit conducted memorial services at the graveside of Cemetery.

Pvt. Ostendorf, after whom Post 1300 is named, was the first Granite City serviceman to be killed in action in World War I.

Rush named principal of both Venice schools

By VALERIE EVENDEN

of the Press-Record
John C. Rush, principal of Venice High School for the last four years, was named principal of both the Venice grade school and high school at Monday night's meeting of the Venice Board of Education.

He succeeds as grade school principal Mrs. Anna McKinney Spencer, who is retiring at the conclusion of the current school year.

A program in tribute to Mrs. Spencer, a teacher and principal in the system for 31 years, is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Friday in the Venice
High School gymnasium.

The board also appointed Clarence Hand as head teacher for Venice Grade School, with major responsibilities in the areas of student discipline and general supervision of Hand, a sixth grade teacher, has been in the Venice school system for 14 years. He will continue to serve as a teacher, but on a half-time basis.

JOHN C. RUSH

the Venice School District in August 1961, following his graduation from Illinois
State University at Normal

Urbana and since has earned ditional courses at Washington University, St.

Louis.

Rush is married to the former Miss Lena McGlone of Venice. She has taught kindergarten at Venice Grade School for several years.

The couple has three sons.
Since the Venice district's deepening financial trouble in the past few years, the question of combining the posts of high school and grade school principal had been discussed from time to time, with varying reaction from board members. This week, the decision was reached by the board to proceed with merging of the posts.

At the present time, there are 319 pupils in kindergarten through 8th grade and 108 students in the 9th through 12th grade levels.
